The Tudor Facsimile Texts

Sir John Oldcastle

In consequence of the miscarriage of proofs in the post the fact that the "non-ascribed" title-page in this facsimile is itself in facsimile is not recorded, as it should be, in the "Prelim."

I regret the accident. This slip will, however, set out the fact.

“ Written by WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE ”

Two editions of this play were issued in 1600; one impression [B.M. Press-mark, C. 34, l. 1] ascribed it to Shakespeare, the other [C. 34, l. 2] did not. It is uncertain which of the two is the earlier. Both title pages are herein given, but the text which follows is from the impression which lacks the ascription. In this edition certain errors of the press appearing in the other were corrected.

“Sir John Oldcastle” next appeared in the third folio, and afterwards in the folio of 1684.

Henslowe’s “Diary” seems incontestably to negative the ascription to Shakespeare.

Mr. J. A. Herbert, of the Manuscript Department of the British Museum, after comparing this facsimile with the original copy, says that again the reproduction is excellent in every respect.

The Prologue.

*He doubtful Tule (Gentlemen) prefixt
Upon the Argument we haue in hand,
May breede suspence, and wrongfully disturbe
The peacefull quiet of your seited thoughts:
To stop which scruple, let this brieffe suffice.
It is no pamperd glutton we present,*

*Nor aged Councillor to youthfull sinne,
Rut one, whose vertue shone aboue the rest,
A valiant Martyr, and a vertuous peere,
In whose true faith and loyaltie, exprest
Unto his soueraigns, and his countrys weale:
We strine to pay that tribute of our Loue,
Your fauours merite, let faire Truth be grate,
Since for' de inuention former time defac'te.*

The true and honorable Historie, of the life of Sir Iohn Oldcastle, the good Lord Cobham.

In the fight, enter the Sheriffe and two of his men.

Sheriffe.

Y Lords, I charge ye in his Highnesse name,
To keepe the peace, you, and your followers.

Herb. Good M. Sheriffe, look vnto your self.

Pow. Do so, for we haue other businesse.

Proffer to fight againe

Sher. Will ye disturbe the Iudges, and the Assises?
Heare the Kings proclamation ye were best.

Pow. Hold then, lets heare it.

Herb. But be briefe, ye were best.

Bayl. O yes.

Dany Cossone, make shorter O, or shall marre your Yes.

Bay. O yes.

Owen What, has her nothing to say but O yes?

Bay. O yes.

Da. O nay, pye Cofse plut downe with her, downe with her,
A Pawesse a Pawesse.

Gongh A Herbert a Herbert, and downe with Powesse.

Helter skelter againe.

Sher. Hold, in the Kings name, hold.

Herb. Powesse, I thinke thy Welch and thou do smart.

Pow. Herbert, I thinke my sword came neere thy heart.

Herb. Thy hearts best bloud shall pay the losse of mine.

Gough A Herbert a Herbert.

Dauy A Pawesse a Pawesse.

As they are listng their weapons, enter the Maior of Hereford, and his Officers and Townes-men with clubbes.

Maior My Lords, as you are liege men to the Crowne,
True noblemen, and subiects to the King,

Attend his Highnesse proclamation,

Commaunded by the Iudges of Assise,

For keeping peace at this assemblie.

Herb. Good M. Maior of Hereford be briefe.

Mai. Serieant, without the ceremonie of O yes.

Pronounce aloud the proclamation.

Ser. The Kings Iustices, perceiuing what publique mis-chiefe may ensue this priuate quarrel: in his maiesties name do straightly charge and commaund all persons, of what degree soeuer, to depart this citie of Hereford, except such as are bound to giue attendance at this Assise, and that no man presume to weare any weapon, especially welsh-hookes, forrest billes.

Owen Haw, no pill nor wells hoog? ha?

Mai. Peace, and heare the proclamation.

Ser. And that the Lord Powesse do presently disperse and discharge his retinue, and depart the citie in the Kings peace, he and his followers, on paine of imprisonment.

Commit Lord Powesse to safe custodie,

To answer the disturbance of the peace,

Lord Herberts perill, and his high contempt

Of vs, and you the Kings commissioners,

See it be done with care and diligence.

Sher. Please it your Lordship, my Lord Powesse is gone,

Past all recouery.

2. Iud. Yet let search be made;

To apprehend his followers that are left.

Sher. There are some of them, sirs, lay hold on them,

Owen Of vs, and why? what has her done I pray you?

Sher. Disarme them Bailiffes.

1. Judge To Iayle with them, and the Lord Herberts men, Weele talke with them, when the Assise is done, Exempt.
Riotous, audacious, and vnruely Groomes,
Must we be forced to come from the Bench,
To quiet brawles, which euery Constable
In other ciuill places can suppress?

2. Judge What was the quarrel that causde all this stirre?

Sher. About religion (as I heard) my Lord.
Lord Powesse detracted from the power of Rome,
Affirming Wickliffes doctrine to be true,
And Romes erreneous: hot reply was made
By the lord Herbert, they were traytors all
That would maintaine it: Powesse answered,
They were as true, as noble, and as wise
As he, that would defend it with their liues,
He namde for instance sir John Old-castle
The Lord Cobham: Herbert replide againe,
He, thou, and all are traitors that so hold.
The lie was giuen, the seuerall factions drawne,
And so enragde, that we could not appease it.

1. Judge This case concernes the Kings prerogatiue, And's dangerous to the State and common wealth.
Gentlemen, Iustices, master Maior, and master Shrieue,
It doth behoue vs all, and each of vs
In generall and particular, to haue care
For the suppressing of all mutinies,
And all assemblies, except souldiers musters
For the Kings preparation into France.
We heare of secret conuenticles made,
And there is doubt of some conspiracies,
Which may breake out into rebellious armes
When the King's gone, perchance before he go:
Note as an instance, this one perillous fray,
What factions might haue growne on either part,
To the destruction of the King and Realme,
Yet, in my conscience, sir John Old-castle

Innocent

for Iohn Old-castle.

Innocent of it, onely his name was vsde.
We therefore from his Highnesse giue this charge.

You maister Maior, looke to your cittizens,
You maister Sherife vnto your thire, and you
As Iustices in euery ones precinct

There be no meetings. When the vulgar sort
Sit on their Ale-bench, with their caps and kannes,
Matters of state be not their common talke,
Nor pure religion by their lips prophande.

Let vs returne vnto the Bench againe,
And there examine further of this fray. Enter a Bailie and

Sher. Sits, haue ye taken the lord Powelle yet? a Sericant

Ba. No, nor heard of him.

Ser. No, hee's gone farre enough.

2. In. They that are left behind, shall answer all. Exeunt.

Enter Suffolke, Bishop of Rochester, Butler, parson of Wrosham.

Suffolke Now my lord Bishop, take free liberty
To speake your minde: what is your sute to vs?

Bishop My noble Lord, no more than what you know,
And haue bin oftentimes inuested with:

Griuous complaints haue past betweene the lippes

Of enuious persons to vpbraide the Cleargy,

Some carping at the liuings which we haue,

And others spurning at the ceremonies

That are of auncient custome in the church.

Amongst the which, Lord Cobham is a chiefe:

What inconuenience may proceede hereof,

Both to the King and to the common wealth,

May easily be discern'd, when like a frensie

This inuouation shall possesse their mindes.

These vpliants will haue followers to vphold

Their damnd opinion, more than Harry shall

To vndergoe his quarrell gainst the French.

Suffolke What prooffe is there against them to be had,
That what you say the law may iustifie?

Sir Iohn Was euer heard (my Lord) the like til now?
That theeues and rebels, s bloud heretikes,
Playne heretikes, Ile stand toote to their teeth,
Should haue to colour, their vile practises,

A title of such worth, as Protestant? enter one mytk a letter.

Suf. O but you must not sweare, it ill becoimes
One of your coate, to rappe out bloody oathes.

Bish. Pardon him good my Lord, it is his zeale,
An honest country prelate, who laments
To seee such foule disorder in the church.

Sir Iohn Theres one they call him Sir Iohn Old-castle,
He has not his name for naught: for like a castle
Doth he encompasse them within his walls,
But till that castle be subuerted quite,
We ne're shall be at quiet in the realme.

Bish. That is our fate, my Lord, that he be tane,
And brought in question for his heretic,
Beside, two letters brought me out of Wales,
Wherin my Lord Herford writes to me,
What tumult and sedition was begun,
About the Lord Cobham, at the Sifes there,
For they had much ado to calme the rage,
And that the valiant Herbert is there slaine.

Suf. A fire that must be quencht, wel, say no more,
The King anon goes to the counsell chamber,
There to debate of matters touching France:
As he doth passe by, Ile informe his grace
Concerning your petition: Master Buder,
If I forget, do you remember me,

But. I will my Lord.

Offer him a purse.

Bish. Not for a recompence,
But as a token of our loue to you,
By me my Lords of the cleargie do present
This purse, and in it full a thousand Angells, Praying your Lordship to accept their gift.

Suf.

Sir Iohn Old-castle.

Suf. I thanke them, my Lord Bishop, for their loue,
But will not take their mony, if you please
To giue it to this gentleman, you may.

Bish. Sir, then we craue your furtherance herein.

Bnt. The best I can my Lord of Rochester.

Bish. Nay, pray ye take it, trust me but you shal,

Sir Iohn Were ye all three vpon New Market heath,
You should not neede straine curtisie who should haite,
Sir Iohn would quickly rid ye of that care.

Suf. The King is comming, feare ye not my Lord,
The very first thing I will breake with him,
Shal be about your matter. Enter K. Harry and Hunting-

Har. My Lord of Suffolke, son in talke.
Was it not saide the Cleargy did refuse
To lend vs mony toward our warres in France?

Suf. It was my Lord, but very wrongfully.

Har. I know it was, for Huntington here tells me,
They haue bin very bountifull of late.

Suf. And still they vow my gracious Lord to be so,
Hoping your maiestie will thinke of them,
As of your louing subiects, and suppressse
All such malicious errors as begin
To spot their calling, and disturb the church.

Har. God else forbid: why Suffolke, is there Any new rupture to disquiet them?

Suf. No new my Lord, the old is great enough,
And so increasing, as if not cut downe,
Will breede a scandale to your royall state,
And set your Kingdome quickly in an vproare,
The Kentish knight, Lord Cobham, in despight
Of any law, or spirituall discipline,
Maintaines this vpstart new religion still,
And diuers great assemblies by his meanes
And priuate quarrells, are commenst abroad,
As by this letter more at large my liege,
Is made apparant.

The first part of

Har. We do find it here,
There was in Wales a certaine fray of late,
Betweene two noblemen, but what of this?
Followes it straight Lord Cobham must be he Did cause the same? I dare be sworne (good knight)
He neuer dreamt of any such contention.

Bish. But in his name the quarrell did begin,
About the opinion which he held (my liege.)

Har. How if it did? was either he in place,
To take part with them, or abette them in it?
If brabbling fellowes, whose inkindled bloud,
Seethes in their fiery vaines, will needes go fight,
Making their quarrells of some words that past,
Either of you, or you, amongst their cuppes,
Is the fault yours, or are they guiltie of it?

Suffolke With pardon of your Highnesse (my dread lord)
Such little sparkes neglected, may in time
Grow to a mighty flame: but thats not all,
He doth beside maintaine a strange religion,
And will not be compeld to come to masse.

Bish. We do beseech you therefore gracious prince,
Without offence vnto your maiesty
We may be bold to vse authoritie.

Harry As how?

Bishop To summon him vnto the Arches,
Where such offences haue their punishment.

Harry To answer personally, is that your meaning?

Bishop It is, my lord.

Harry How if he appeale?

Bishop He cannot (my Lord) in such a case as this.

Suffolke Not where Religion is the plea, my lord.

Harry I tooke it alwayes, that our selfe stooode ont,
As a sufficient refuge, vnto whome
Not any but might lawfully appeale.
But wee le not argue now vpon that poynt:
For sir Iohn Old-castle whom you accuse, ſir Iohn Old-caſtle.

Let me intreate you to diſpence awhile
With your high title of preheminance. in ſcorne.

Report did neuer yet condemne him ſo,
But he hath alwayes bene reputed loyall:
And in my knowledge I can ſay thus much,
That he is vertuous, wiſe, and honourable:
If any way his conſcience be ſeduc'de,
To wauer in his faith: Ile ſend for him,
And ſchoole him priuately, if that ſerue not,
Then afterward you may proceede againſt him.
Butler, be you the meſſenger for vs,

And will him preſently repaire to court. exiunt.

ſir Iohn How now my lord, why ſtand you diſcontent?
In ſooth, me thinkes the King hath well decreed.

Biſhop Yea, yea, ſir Iohn, if he would keepe his word,
But I perceiue he fauours him ſo much,
As this will be to ſmall effect, I feare.

ſir Iohn Why then Ile tell you what y'are beſt to do:
If you ſuſpect the King will be but cold
In reprehending him, ſend you a proceſſe too
To ſerue vpon him: ſo you may be ſure
To make him answer't, howſoere it fall.

Biſhop And well remembered, I will haue it ſo,
A Sumner ſhall be ſent about it ſtrait Exit.

ſir Iohn Yea, doe ſo, in the meane ſpace this remaines
For kinde ſir Iohn of Wrotham honeſt Iacke.
Me thinkes the purſe of gold the Biſhop gaue,
Made a good ſhew, it had a tempting looke,
Beſhrew me, but my fingers ends do itch
To be vpon thoſe rudduks: well, tis thus:
I am not as the worlde does take me for:
If euer wolfe were cloathed in ſheepes coate,
Then I am he, olde huddle and twang, yfaith,
A priett in ſhew, but in plaine termes, a theefe,
Yet let me tell you too, an honeſt theefe,
One that will take it where it may be ſparde,

And spend it freely in good fellowship.
I haue as many shapes as Proteus had,
That still when any villany is done,
There may be none suspect it was sir John.
Besides, to comfort me, for whats this life,
Except the crabbed bitternes thereof
Be sweetened now and then with lechery?
I haue my Doll, my concubine as t were,
To frolicke with, a lusty bounding getle.
But whilst I loyter here the gold, may scape,
And that must not be so, it is mine owne,
Therefore Ile meete him on his way to court,
And shruue him of it : there will be the sport. Exit.

Enter three or foure poore people, some souldiers, some old men

1 God help, God help, there's law for punishing,
But theres no law for our necessity:
There be more stockes to set poore foldiers in,
Than there be houfes to releue them at.

Old man Faith, housekeeping decayes in euery place,
Euen as Saint Peter writ, still worse and worse

4 Maister maior of Rochester has giuen commaundement, that none shall goe abroade out of the parish, and they haue set an order downe forsooth, what euery poore household must giue towards our reliefe: where there be some ceased
I may say to you, had almost as much neede to beg as we.

1 It is a hard world the while.

Old man If a poore man come to a doore to aske for Gods sake, they aske him for a licence, or a certificate from a Iustice.

2 Faith we haue none, but what we beare vppon our hodies, our maimed limbs, God help vs.

4 And yet, as lame as I am, Ile with the king into France, if I can crawl but a ship-boorde, I hadde rather be slaine in France, than starue in England.

Old man. Ha, were I but as lusty as I was at the battell of Shrewsbury, I would not doe as I do : but we are now come to the good lord Cobhams, to the best man to the poore that is

Sir John Old-castle.

is in all Kent.

4 God blesse him, there be but few such.

Enter Lord Cobham with Harpoole.

Cob. Thou peeuish froward man, what wouldst thou haue?

Harp. This pride, this pride, brings all to beggarie,
I seru de your fathers, and your grandfather,
Shew me such two men now: no, no,
Your backes, your backes, the diuell and pride,
Has cut the throate of all good housekeeping,
They were the best Ycomens masters, that Euer were in England.

Cob. Yea, except thou haue a crue of seely knaues,
And sturdy rogues, still feeding at my gate,
There is no hospitalitie with thee.

Harp. They may sit at the gate well enough, but the diuell of any thing you giue them, except they will eat stones.

Cob. Tis long then of such hungry knaues as you, pointing Yea sir, heres your retinue, your guests be come, to the
They know their howers I warrant you. beggars

Old. God blesse your honour, God saue the good Lord
Cobham, and all his house,

Soul. Good your honour, bestow your blessed almes, Vpon poore men.

Cob. Now sir, here be your Almes knights.
Now are you as safe as the Emperour.

Harp. My Almes knights: nay, th are yours,
It is a shame for you, and Ile stand too't,
Your foolish almes maintaines more vagabonds,
Then all the noblemen in Kent beside.
Out you rogues, you knaues, worke for your liuings,
Alas poore men, O Lord, they may beg their hearts out,
Theres no more charitie amongst men,
Then amongst so many mastiffe dogges,
What make you here, you needy knaues?
Away, away, you villaines.

Soul. I beseech you sir, be good to vs.

Cob.

The first part of

Cobham Nay, nay, they know thee well enough, I thinke that all the beggars in this land are thy acquaintance, goe bestowe your almes, none will controule you sir.

Harp. What should I giue them? you are growne so beggarly, you haue scarce a bitte of breade to giue at your doore: you talke of your religion so long, that you haue banished charitie from amongst you, a man may make a flaxe thop in your kitchin chimnies, for any fire there is stirring.

Cobham If thou wilt giue them nothing, send them hence, let them not stand here staruing in the colde.

Harp. Who I driue them hence? if I driue poore men from your doore, Ile be hangd, I know not what I may come to my selfe: yea, God help you poore knaues, ye see the world yfaith, well, you had a mother: well, God be with thee good Lady, thy soule's at rest: she gaue more in shirts and smocks to poore children, then you spend in your house, & yet you liue a beggar too.

Cobham Euen the worst deede that ere my mother did, was in releeuing such a foole as thou.

Harpoolle Yea, yea, I am a foole still, with all your wit you will die a beggar, go too.

Cobham Go you olde foole, giue the poore people something, go in poore men into the inner court, and take such alms as there is to be had.

Souldier God blesse your honor.

Harpoolle Hang you roags, hang you, theres nothing but misery amongst you, you feare no law you. Exi.

Olde man God blesse you good maister Rafe, God saue your life, you are good to the poore still.

Enter the Lord Powes disguised, and throwde him selfe.

Cobham What fellow's yonder comes along the groue?
Few passengers there be that know this way:
Me thinkes he stops as though he stayd for me,
And meant to throwd him selfe amongst the bushes.
I know the Cleargie hate me to the death,
And my religion gets me many foes:

And

for Iohn Old-castle.

And this may be some desperate rogue,
Subordn to worke me mischief: As it
Pleaseth God, if he come toward me, sure
He stay his comming, be he but one man,
What soere he be: The Lord Powis comes on.
I haue beene well acquainted with that face:

Powis Well met my honorable lord and friend.

Cobham You are welcome sir, what ere you be,
But of this sodaine sir, I do not know you.

Powis I am one that wisheth well vnto your honor,
My name is Powes, an olde friend of yours.

Cobham My honorable lord, and worthy friend,
What makes your lordship thus alone in Kent,
And thus disguised in this strange attire?

Powis My Lord, an vnexpected accident,
Hath at this time inforde me to these parts:
And thus it hapt, not yetful five dayes since,
Now at the last Assise at Hereford,
It chanst that the lord Herbert and my selfe,
Mongst other things, discoursing at the table,
To fall in speech about some certaine points
Of Wickliffes doctrine, gainst the papacie,
And the religion catholique, maintaind
Through the most part of Europe at this day.
This wilfull teasty lord strucke not to say,
That Wickliffe was a knaue, a schismatike,
His doctrine diuelish and hereticall,
And what soere he was maintaind the same,
was traitor both to God and to his country.
Being moued at his peremptory speech,
I told him, some maintained those opinions,
Men, and truer subiects then lord Herbert was:
And he replying in comparisons:
Your name was vrgde, my lord, gainst his chalenge,
To be a perfect fauourer of the truth.
And to be short, from words we fell to blowes,

Cobham I hope no man was violently slaine.

Powis Faith none I trust, but the lord Herberts selfe,
Who is in truth so dangerously hurt,
As it is doubted he can hardly scape.

Cobham I am sory, my good lord, of these ill newes.

Powis This is the cause that driues me into Kent,
To shrowd my selfe with you so good a friend,
Vntill I heare how things do speed at home.

Cobham Your lordship is most welcome vnto Cobham,
But I am very sory, my good lord,
My name was brought in question in this matter,
Considering I haue many enemies,
That threaten malice, and do lie in waite
To take aduantage of the smallest thing.
But you are welcome; and repose your lordship,
And keepe your selfe here secret in my house,
Vntill we heare how the lord Herbert speedes:
Here comes my man. Enter Harpoole.
Sirra, what newes?

Harpoole Yonders one maister Butler of the priuie chamber, is sent vnto you from the King.

Powis I pray God the lord Herbert be not dead, and the King hearing whither I am gone, hath sent for me.

Cob. Comfort your selfe my lord, I warrant you.

Harpoole Fellow, what ailes thee? dost thou quake? dost thou shake? dost thou tremble? ha?

Cob. Peacq you old foole, sirra, conuey this gentleman in the backe way, and bring the other into the walk.

Harpoole Come sir, you are welcome, if you loue my lorde.

Powis God haue mercy gentle friend. exunt.

Cob. I thought as much, that it would not be long before I heard

heard of something from the King, about this matter.

Enter Harpoole with Maister Butler.

Harpoole Sir, yonder my lord walkes, you see him,
He haue your men into the Celler the while.

Cobb. welcome good maister Butler.

Butler Thankes, my good lord : his Maiestie dooth commend his loue vnto your lordship, and wils you to repaire vnto the court.

Cobb. God blesse his Highnesse, and confound his enemies, I hope his Maiestie is well.

Butler In health, my lord.

Cobb. God long continue it : mee thinkes you looke as though you were not well, what ailes you sir?

Butler Faith I haue had a foolish odde mischance, that angers mee : comming ouer Shooters hill, there came a fellow to me like a Sauler, and asked me money, and whilst I staide my horse to draw my purse, he takes th' aduantage of a little banck and leapes behind me, whippes my purse away, and with a souldaine ierke I know not how, threw me at least three yards out of my saddle. I neuer was so robbed in all my life.

Cobb. I am very sorie sir for your mischance, wee will send our warrant forth, to stay such suspitious persons as shal be found, then maister Butler, we wil attend you.

Butler I humbly thanke your lordship, I will attend you.

Enter the Sumner.

Sum. I haue the law to warrant what I do, and though the Lord Cobham be a noble man, that dispenses not with law, I dare serue processe were a fine noble men, though we Sumners make sometimes a mad slip in a corner with a prettie wench, a Sumner must not goe alwayes by seeing, a manne may be content to hide his eies, where he may feele his profit: well, this is my Lord Cobhams house, if I can deuise to speake with him, if not, He clap my citation vpon's doore, so my lord of Rochester bid me, but me thinkes here coines one of his men.

Enter Harpoole.

Harp. Welcome good fellow, welcome, who wouldst thou

The first part of speake with?

Sum. With my lord Cobham, I would speake, if thou be one of his men.

Harp. Yes I am one of his men, but thou canst not speake with my lord.

Sum. May I send to him then?

Harp. Ile tel thee that, when I know thy errand.

Sum. I will not tel my errand to thee.

Harp. Then keepe it to thy selfe, and walke like a knaue as thou camest.

Sum. I tell thee my lord keeps no knaues, sirra.

Harp. Then thou seruest him not, I beleue, what lord is thy master?

Sum. My lord of Rochester.

Harp. In good tyme, and what wouldst thou haue with my lord Cobham?

Sum. I come by vertue of a processe, to ascite him to appeare before my lord, in the court at Rochester.

Harp aside. Wel, God grant me patience, I could eate this conger. My lord is not at home, therefore it were good Summer you caried your processe backe.

Sum. Why, if he will not be spoken withall, then will I leaue it here, and see you that he take knowledge of it.

Harp. Swounds you slaue, do you set vp your bills here, go to, take it downe againe, doest thou know what thou dost, dost thee know on whom thou seruest processe?

Sum. Yes marry doe I, Sir Iohn Old-castle Lord Cobham.

Harp. I am glad thou knowest him yet; and sirra dost not thou know, that the lord Cobham is a braue lord, that keeps good beefe and beere in his house, and euery day feedes a hundred poore people at's gate, and keeps a hundred tall fellows?

Sum. Whats that to my processe?

Harp. Mary this sir, is this processe parchment?

Sum. Yes mary.

Harp.

for Iohn Old-castle.

Harp. And this scale waxe?

Sum. It is so.

Harp. If this be parchment, & this wax, eate you this parchment, and this waxe, or I will make parchment of your skinne, and beate your braines into waxe : Sirra Sumner dispatch, deuoure, sirra deuoure.

Sum. I am my lord of Rochesters Sumner, I came to do my office, and thou shalt answere it.

Harp. Sirra, no railing, but betake you to your teeth, thou shalt eate no worse then thou bringst with thee, thou bringst it for my lord, and wilt thou bring my lord worse then thou wilt eate thy selfe?

Sum. Sir, I brought it not my lord to eate.

Harp. O do you sir me now, all's one for that, but ile make you eate it, for bringing it.

Sum. I cannot eate it.

Harp. Can you not? sbloud ile beate you vntil you haue a stomacke.

he beates him.

Sum. O hold, hold, good master seruing-man, I will eate it.

Harp. Be champping, be chawing sir, or lle chaw you, you rogue, the purest of the hony.

Sum. Tough waxe, is the purest of the hony.

Harp. O Lord sir, oh oh,

he eates.

Feed, feed, wholsome rogue, wholsome.

Cannot you like an honest Sumner walke with the chnrell your brother, to fetch in your Bailiffes rents, but you must come to a noble mans house with proceffe? Sbloud if thy scale were as broad as the lead that couers Rochester church, thou shouldst eate it.

Sum. O I am almost choaked, I am almost choaked.

Harp. Who's within there? wil you shame my Lord, is there no beere in the house? Butler I say.

But. Heere, here.

Enter Butler.

Harp. Giue him Beere.

he drinkes.

There, tough old sheepskins, bare drie meate.

Sum. O sir, let me go no further, lle eate my word.

The first part of

Harp. Yea may sir, so I meane you shall eate more then your own word, for ile make you eate all the words in the processe. Why you drab monger, cannot the secrets of al the wenches in a sheire serue your turne, but you must come hither with a citation with a poxe? Ile cite you. he has then done.
A cup of sacke for the Sumner.

But. Here sir here.

Harp. Here slaue I drinke to thee.

Sum. I thanke you sir.

Harp. Now if thou findest thy stomacke well, because thou shalt see my Lord keep's meate in's house, if thou wilt go in thou shalt haue a peece of beefe to thy break fast.

Sum. No I am very well good M. seruing-man, I thanke you, very well sir.

Harp. I am glad on't, then be walking towards Rochester to keepe your stomack warme: and Sumner, if I may know you disturb a good wench within this Diocesse, if I do not make thee eate her peticote, if there were four yards of Kentish cloth in't, I am a villaine.

Sum. God be with you M. seruingmaan.

Harp. Farewell Sumner.

Enter. Const. ble.

Con. God saue you M. Harpoole.

Harp. Welcome Constable, welcom Constable, what news with thee?

Con. And't please you M. Harpoole, I am to make hue to eie, for a fellow with one eie that has rob'd two Clothiers, and am to craue your hindrance, for to search all suspected places, and they say there was a woman in the company.

Harp. Hast thou bin at the Alehouse, hast thou sought there?

Con. I durst not search sir, in my Lord Cobhams libertie, except I had some of his seruants, which are for my warrant.

Harp. An honest Constable, an honest Constable, cal forth him that keepe the Alehouse there.

Con. Ho, who's within there?

Alle man. Who calls there, come neere a Gods name, oh is't you

sir John Old-castle.

you M. Constable and M. Harpoole, you are welcome with all my heart, what make you here so earely this morning?

Harp. Sirra, what strangers do you lodge, there is a robbery done this morning, and we are to search for all suspected persons.

Aleman. Gods bores, I am sory for't, yfaith sir I lodge no body but a good honest mery priest, they call him sir Iohn a Wrootham, and a handsonie woman that is his neece, that he saies he has some sute in law for, and as they go vp & down to London, sometimes they lie at my house.

Harp. What, is he here in thy house now?

Con. She is sir, I promise you sir he is a quiet man, and because he will not trouble too many roomes, he makes the woman lie euery night at his beds feete.

Harp. Bring her forth Constable, bring her forth, let's see her, let's see her.

Con. Dorothy, you must come downe to M. Constable.

Dol. Anon forsooth.

She enters.

Harp. Welcome sweete lasse, welcome.

Dol. I thank you good M. seruing-man, and master Constable also.

Harp. A plump girle by the mas, a plump girle, ha Dol ha, wilt thou forsake the priest, and go with me.

Con. A well said M. Harpoole, you are a merrie old man yfaith, yfaith you wil neuer be old: now by the macke, a prettie wench indeed.

Harp. Ye old mad mery Constable, art thou aduis'de of that: ha, well said Dol, fill some ale here.

Dol aside Oh if I wist this old priest would not sticke to me, by loue I would ingle this old seruing-man.

Harp. Oh you o d mad colt, yfaith Ile feak you: fil all the pots in the house there.

Con. Oh wel said M. Harpoole, you are heart of oake when all's done.

Harp. Ha Dol, thou hast a sweete paire of lippes by the masse.

Dol.

The first part of

Doll Truly you are a most sweet olde man, as euer I sawe, by my troth, you haue a face, able to make any woman in loue with you.

Harp. Fill sweete Doll, Ile drinke to thee.

Doll I pledge you fir, and thanke you therefore, and I pray you let it come.

Harp. embracing her Doll, canst thou loue me? a mad merry lasse, would to God I had neuer seene thee.

Doll I warrant you you will not out of my thoughts this tweluemonth, truly you are as full of fauour, as a man may be. Ah these sweete grey lockes, by my troth, they are most louely.

Constable Gods boores maister Harpoole, I will haue one buffe too.

Harp. No licking for you Constable, hand off, hand off.

Constable Bur lady I loue kissing as well as you.

Doll Oh you are an od boie, you haue a wanton eie of your owne: ah you sweete sugar lipt wanton, you will winne as many womens hearts as come in your company. Enter Priest.

Wroth. Doll, come hither.

Harp. Priest, she shal not.

Doll Ile come anone, sweete loue.

Wroth. Hand off, old fornicator.

Harp. Vicar, Ile sit here in spight of thee, is this fitte stufte for a priest to carry vp and downe with him?

Wrotham Ah sirra, dost thou not know, that a good fellow parson may haue a chappel of ease, where his parish Church is barre off?

Harp. You whoore son ston'd Vicar.

Wroth. You olde stale ruffin, you lion of Cotswold.

Harp. Swounds Vicar, Ile geld you. flies vpon him.

Constable Keepe the Kings peace.

Doll Murder, murder, murder.

Aleman Holde, as you are men, holde, for Gods sake be quiet i put vp your weapons, you drawe not in my house.

Harp. You whoore son bawdy priest.

Wroth.

sir Iohn Old-castle.

Wrath. You old mutton monger.

Constable Hold sir Iohn, hold.

Doll to the Priest I pray thee sweet heart be quiet, I was but sitting to drinke a pot of ale with him, euen as kinde a man as euer I met with.

Harp. Thou art a theefe I warrant thee.

Wrath. Then I am but as thou hast beene in thy dayes, lets not be ashamed of our trade, the King has beene a theefe himselfe.

Doll Come, be quiet, hast thou sped?

Wrath. I haue wench, here be crownes ifaith.

Doll Come, lets be all friends then.

Constable Well said mistris Dorothy ifaith.

Harp. Thou art the madst priest that euer I met with.

Wrath. Giue me thy hand, thou art as good a fellow, I am a singer, a drinker, a bencher, a wench, I can say a masse, and kisse a lasse: faith I haue a parsonage, and bicause I would not be at too much charges, this wench serues me for a sexton.

Harp. Well said mad priest, weele in and be friends. exunt.

Enter sir Roger Acton, maister Bourne, maister Beuerley,

a. William Murley the brewer of Dunstable.

Acton Now maister Murley, I am well assurde
You know our arrant, and do like the cause,
Being a man affected as we are?

Mu. Mary God dild ye daintie my deere, no maister, good sir Roger Acton Knight, maister Bourne, and maister Beuerley esquires, gentlemen, and iustices of the peace, no maister I, but plaine William Murly the brewer of Dunstable your honest neighbour, and your friend, if ye be men of my profession.

Beuerley Professed friends to Wickliffe, foes to Rome.

Murl. Hold by me lad, leane vpon that staffe good maister Beuerley, all of a house, say your mind, say your mind.

Acton You know our faction now is growne so great,
Throughout the realme, that it beginnes to smoake
Into the Cleargies eies, and the Kings eares.

The first part of

High time it is that we were drawne to head,
Our generall and officers appoynted.
And warres ye wot will aske great store of coine.
Able to strength our action with your purse,
You are elected for a colonell
Ouer a regiment of fifteene bands.

Murley Fue paltrie paltrie, in and out, to and fro, be it more or lesse, vpon occasion, Lorde haue mercie vpon vs, what a woild is this? Sir Roger Acton, I am but a Dunstable man, a plaine brewer, ye know: will lusty Caualliering captaines gentlemen come at my calling, goe at my bidding? Daintie my deere, theie doe a dogge of waxe, a horse of cheefe, a pricke and a pudding, no, no, ye must appoint some lord or knight at least to that place.

Bourne Why master Murley, you shall be a Knight:
Were you not in election to be shrieue?
Haue ye not past all offices but that?
Haue ye not wealth to make your wife a lady?
I warrant you, my lord, our Generall
Bestowes that honor on you at first sight.

Murley Mary God dild ye daintie my deare:
But tell me, who shalbe our Generall?
Wheres the lord Cobham, sir Iohn Old-castle,
That noble almes-giuer, housekeeper, vertuous,
Religious gentleman? Come to me there boies,
Come to me there.

Acton Why who but he shall be our Generall?

Murley And shall he knight me, and make me colonell?

Acton My word for that, sir William Murley knight.

Murley Fellow sir Roger Acton knight, all fellowes, I meane in armes, how strong are we? how many partners? our enemies beside the King are mightie, be it more or lesse vpon occasion, reckon our force.

Acton There are of vs our friends, and followers,
Three thousand and three hundred at the least,
Of northerne lads foure thousand, beside horse,

From

sir Iohn Old-castle.

From Kent there comes with sir Iohn Old-castle
Seauen thousand, then from London issue out,
Of maisters, seruants, strangers, prentices
Fortie odde thousands into Ficket field;
Where we appoynt our speciall randeuous.

Murley Fue paltry paltry, in and out, to and fro, Lord haue mercie vpon vs, what a world is this, wheres that Ficket field, sir Roger?

Alton Behinde saint Giles in the field neere Holborne.

Murley Newgate, vp Holborne, S. Giles in the field, and to Tiborne, an old saw: for the day, for the day?

Alton On friday next the foureteenth day of January.

Murley Tyllic vallie, trust me neuer if I haue any liking of that day: fue paltry paltry, friday quoth a, dismall day, Childermasse day this yeare was friday.

Beuerley Nay maister Murley, if you obserue such daies,
We make some question of your constancie,
All daies are like to men resolu de in right.

Murley Say Amen, and say no more, but say, and hold master Beuerley, friday next, and Ficket field, and William Murley, and his merry men shalbe al one, I haue halfe a score iades that draw my beere cartes; and euery iade shall beare a knaue, and euery knaue shall weare a iacke, and euery iacke shal haue a scull, and euery scull shal shew a speare, and euery speare shal kill a foe at Ficket field, at Ficket field, Iohn and Tom, and Dicke and Hodge, and Rafe and Robin, William & George, and all my knaues shall fight like men, at Ficket field on friday next.

Boerne What summe of money meane you to disburse?

Murley It may be modestly, decently, soberly, and handsomely I may bring fue hundreth pound.

Alton Fue hundreth man? fue thousand's not enough,
A hundreth thousand will not pay our men

Two months together, either come preparte
Like a braue Knight, and martiall Colonell,

In glittering golde, and gallant furniture,

The first part of

Bringing in toyne, a cart loade at the least,
And all your followers mounted on good horse,
Or neuer come disgracefull to vs all.

Benerley Perchance you may be chosen Treasurer,
Tenne thousand pound's the least that you can bring.

Adurley Paltry paltry, in and out, to and fro, vpon occasion I haue ten thousand pound to spend, and tenne too. And rather than the Bishop shall haue his will of mee for my conscience, it shall out all. Flame and flaxe, flame and flaxe, it was gotte with water and mault, and it shall flie with fire and gunne powder. Sir Roger, a cart loade of mony til the axetree cracke, my selfe and my men in Ficket field on friday next: remember my Knighthoode, and my place: there's my hand Ile bee
there.

Exit:

Alton See what Ambition may persuade men to,
In hope of honor he will spend himselfe.

Bourne I neuer thought a Brewer halfe so rich.

Benerley Was neuer bankerout Brewer yet but one,
With vsing too much mault, too little water.

Alton Thats no fault in Brewers now adayes:
Come, away about our businesse.

Enter K. Harry, Suffolke, Butler, and Old-castle kneeling to the King.

Harry Tis not enough Lord Cobham to submit,
You must forsake your grosse opinion,
The Bishops find themselues much iniured,
And though for some good seruice you haue done,
We for our part are pleasde to pardon you,
Yet they will not so soone be satisfied,

Cobham My gracious Lord vnto your Maiestie,
Next vnto my God, I owe my life,
And what is mine, either by natures gift,
Or fortunes bountie, al is at your seruice,
But for obedience to the Pope of Rome,
I owe him none, nor shall his shaueling priests
That are in England, alter my believe.

ſir John Old-caſtle.

If out of holy Scripture they can proue,
That I am in an error, I will yeeld,
And gladly take instruction at their hands,
But otherwiſe, I do beſeech your grace,
My conſcience may not be increaſt vpon.

Har. We would be loath to preſſe our ſubiects bodies,
Much leſſe their ſoules, the deere redeemed part,
Of him that is the ruler of vs all,
Yet let me counſell ye, that might command,
Do not preſume to tempt them with ill words,
Nor ſuffer any meetings to be had
Within your houſe, but to the vttermoſt,
Diſperſe the flockes of this new gathering ſect.

Cobham My liege, if any breathe, that dares come forth,
And ſay, my life in any of theſe points
Deſerues th'attaindor of ignoble thoughts
Here ſtand I, crauing no remorse at all,
But euen the vtmoſt rigor may be ſhowne.

Har. Let it ſuffice we know your loyaltie,
What haue you there?

Cob. A deed of clemencie,
Your Highneſſe pardon for Lord Poweſſe life,
Which I did beg, and you my noble Lord,
Of gracious fauour did vouchſafe to grant.

Har. But yet it is not ſigned with our hand.

Cob. Not yet my Liege.

one ready with pen

Har. The fact, you ſay, was done;

and incke.

Not of prepenſed malice, but by chance.

Cob. Vpon mine honor ſo, no otherwiſe.

Har. There is his pardon, bid him make amends, writes.
And cleaſe his ſoule to God for his offence,
What we remit, is but the bodies ſcourge, Enter Biſhop.
How now Lord Biſhop?

Biſhop Iuſtice dread Soueraigne.

As thou art King, ſo graunt I may haue iuſtice.

Har. What meanes this exclamation, let vs know?

The first part of

Bish. Ah my good Lord, the state's abuse,
And our decrees most shamefully prophande.

Har. How, or by whom?

Bish. Euen by this heretike,
This Iew, this Traitor to your maiestie.

Cob. Prelate, thou liest, euen in thy greasie maw,
Or whofoeuer twits me with the name,
Of either traitor, or of heretike.

Har. Forbeare I say, and Bishop, shew the cause
From whence this late abuse hath bin deriue,

Bish. Thus mightie King, by generall consent,
A messenger was sent to cite this Lord,
To make appearance in the consistorie,
And comming to his house, a ruffian slaue,
One of his daily followers, met the man,
Who knowing him to be a parator,
Assaults him first, and after in contempt
Of vs, and our proceedings, makes him eate
The written processe, parchment, seale and all:
Whereby his maister neither was brought forth,
Nor we but scorn'd, for our authoritie.

Har. When was this done?

Bish. At sixe a clocke this morning.

Har. And when came you to court?

Cob. Last night my Lord.

Har. By this it seemes, he is not guilty of it,
And you haue done him wrong t' accuse him so.

Bish. But it was done my lord by his appointment,
Or else his man durst neuer haue bin so bold.

Har. Or else you durst be bold, to interrupt,
And fill our eares with friuolous complaints,
Is this the duetie you do beare to vs?

Was't not sufficient we did passe our word

To send for him, but you misdoubting it,

Or which is worse, intending to forestall

Our regall power, must likewise summon him?

This

Sir Iohn Old-castle

This fauours of Ambition, not of zeale,
And rather proues, you malice his estate,
Than any way that he offends the law.
Go to, we like it not, and he your officer,
That was imployde so much amisse herein,
Had his desert for being insolent:

Enter Huntington

So Cobham when you please you may depart.

Cob. I humbly bid farewell vnto my liege.

Exit

Har. Farewell, what's the newes by Huntington?

Hunt. Sir Roger Aeton, and a crue, my Lord,
Of bold seditious rebels, are in Armies,
Intending reformation of Religion.
And with their Army they intend to pitch,
In Ficket field, vnlesse they be repulst.

Har. So nere our presence? dare they be so bold?
And will proude warre, and eager thirst of bloud,
Whom we had thought to entertaine farre off,
Presse forth vpon vs in our natiue boundes?
Must wee be forc't to hanfell our sharp blades
In England here, which we prepar'd for France?
Well, a Gods name be it, what's their number? say,
Or who's the chiefe commander of this rowt?

Hunt. Their number is not knowne, as yet (my Lord)
But tis reported Sir Iohn Old-castle
Is the chiefe man, on whom they do depend.

Har. How, the Lord Cobham?

Hunt. Yes my gracious Lord.

Bish. I could haue told your maiestie as much
Before he went, but that I saw your Grace
Was too much blinded by his flaterie.

Suf. Send poast my Lord to fetch him backe againe.

But. Traitor vnto his country, how he smooth de,
And seemde as innocent as Truth it selfe?

Har. I cannot thinke it yet, he would be false,
But if he be, no matter let him go,
Weele meet both him and them vnto their wo.

Bishop

The first part of

Bish. This falls out well, and at the last I hope Exeunt
To see this heretike die in a rope.

Enter Earle of Cambridge, Lord Scroope, Gray, and Chartres the French factor.

Scroop. Once more my Lord of Cambridge make reherſal,
How you do ſtand intituled to the Crowne,
The deeper ſhall we print it in our mindes,
And euery man the better be reſolu'de,
When he perceiues his quarrell to be iuſt.

Cam. Then thus Lord Scroope, ſir Thomas Gray, & you
Mouſieur de Chartres, agent for the French,
This Lionell Duke of Clarence, as I ſaid,
Third ſonne of Edward (Englands King) the third
Had iſſue Phillip his ſole daughter and heyre,
Which Phillip afterward was giuen in marriage,
To Edmund Mortimer the Earle of March,
And by him had a ſon cald Roger Mortimer,
Which Roger likewiſe had of his diſcent,
Edmund, Roger, Anne, and Elianor,
Two daughters and two ſonnes, but thoſe three
Dide without iſſue, Anne that did ſuruiue,
And now was left her fathers onely heyre,
My fortune was to marry, being too
By my grandfather of King Edwardes line,
So of his ſurname, I am calde you know,
Richard Plantagenet, my father was,
Edward the Duke of Yorke, and ſon and heyre
To Edmund Langley, Edward the third's firſt ſonne.

Scroop. So that it ſeemes your claime comes by your wife,
As lawfull heyre to Roger Mortimer,
The ſon of Edmund, which did marry Phillip Daughter and heyre to Lyonell Duke of Clarence.

Cam. True, for this Harry, and his father both
Harry the firſt, as plainly doth appeare,
Are falſe intruders, and vſurp the Crowne,
For when yong Richard was at Pomfret ſlaine,

sir Iohn Old-castle.

In him the title of prince Edward dide,
That was the eldest of king Edwards sonnes:
William of Hatfield, and their second brother,
Death in his nonage had before bereft:
So that my wife deriu'd from Lionell,
Third sonne vnto king Edward, ought proceede,
And take possession of the Diademe
Before this Harry, or his father king,
Who fetcht their title but from Lancaster,
Forth of that royall line. And being thus,
What reason ist but she should haue her right?

Scroope I am resolu'de our enterprife is iust.

Gray Harry shall die, or else resigne his crowne.

Chart. Performe but that, and Charles the king of France
Shall ayde you lordes, not onely with his men,
But send you money to maintaine your warres,
Fiuie hundred thousand crownes he bade me proffer,
If you can stop but Harries voyage for France.

Scroope We neuer had a fitter time than now
The realme in such diuision as it is.

Camb. Besides, you must perswade ye there is due,
Vengeance for Richards murder, which although
It be deferr'de, yet will it fall at last,
And now as likely as another time.
Sinne hath had many yeeres to ripen in,
And now the haruest cannot be farre off,
Wherein the weedes of vsurpation,
Are to be crompt, and cast into the fire.

Scroope No more earle Cambridge, here I plight my faith,
To set vp thee, and thy renowned wife.

Gray Gray will performe the same, as he is knight.

Chart. And to assist ye, as I said before,
Charters doth gage the honor of his king.

Scroope We lacke but now Lord Cobhams fellowship,
And then our plot were absolute indeede.

Camb. Doubt not of him, my lord, his life's pursu'de

The first part of

By th' incensed Cleargy, and of late,
Frought in displeasure with the king, assures
He may be quickly wonne vnto our faction.
Who hath the articles were drawne at large
Of our whole purpose?

Gray That haue I my Lord.

Camb. We should not now be farre off from his house,
Our serious conference hath beguild the way,
See where his castle stands, giue me the writing.
When we are come vnto the speech of him,
Because we will not stand to make recount,
Of that which hath bene saide, here he shall reade enter Cob.
Our mindes at large, and what we craue of him.

Scroope A ready way: here comes the man himselfe
Booted and spurrd, it seemes he hath bene riding.

Camb. VVell met lord Cobham.

Cobb. My lord of Cambridge?

Your honor is most welcome into Kent,
And all the rest of this faire company.
I am new come from London, gentle Lordes:
But will ye not take Cowling for your host,
And see what entertainment it affordes?

Camb. We were intended to haue bene your guests:
But now this lucky meeting shall suffice
To end our businesse, and deferre that kindnesse.

Cobb. Businesse my lord? what businesse should you haue
But to be mery? we haue no delicates,
But this Ile promise you, a peece of venison,
A cup of wine, and so forth: hunters fare:
And if you please, wee'll strike the stagge our selues
Shall fill our dishes with his wel-fed flesh.

Scroope That is indeede the thing we all desire.

Cobb. My lordes and you shall haue your choice with me.

Camb. Nay but the stagge which we desire to strike,
Lies not in Cowling: if you will consent,
And goe with vs, wee'll bring you to a forrest,

where

Sir John Old-castle.

Where runnes a lusty hierd : amongst the which
There is a stagge superior to the rest,
A stately beatt, that when his fellows runne,
He leades the race, and beates the fullen earth,
As though he scornd it with his trampling hoofes,
Aloft he beares his head, and with his breast,
Like a huge bulwarke counter-checkes the wind:
And when he standeth still, he stretcheth forth
His proud ambitious necke, as if he meant
To wound the firmament with forked hornes.

Cobb. Tis pittie such a goodly beast should die.

Camb. Not so, sir Iohn, for he is tyrannous,
And gores the other deere, and will not keep
Within the limites are appointed him.
Of late hees broke into a scueral,
Which doth belong to me, and there he spoiles
Both corne and pasture, two of his wilde race
Alike for stealth, and couetous incroatching,
Already are remou'd, if he were dead,
I should not onely be secure from hurt,
But with his body make a royall feast.

Scroope How say you then, will you first hunt with vs?

Cobb. Faith Lords, I like the pastime, where's the place?

Camb. Peruse this writing, it will shew you all,

And what occasion we haue for the sport. he reads

Cobb. Call ye this hunting, my lords? Is this the stag
You faine would chase, Harry our dread king?
So we may make a banquet for the diuell,
And in the steede of wholsome meate, prepare
A dish of poison to confound our selues.

Camb. Why so lord Cobham? see you not our claime?
And how imperiously he holdes the crowne?

Scroope Besides, you know your selfe is in disgrace,
Held as a recreant, and pursude to death.

This will defend you from your enemies,
And stablish your religion through the land.

The first part of

Cobb. Notorious treason! yet I will conceale aside
My secret thought, to sound the depth of it.
My lord of Cambridge, I doe see your claime,
And what good may redound vnto the land,
By prosecuting of this enterprife.

But where are men? where's power and furniture
To order such an action? we are weake,
Harry, you know's a mighty potentate.

Camb. Tut, we are strong enough, you are belou'de,
And many will be glad to follow you,
VVe are the light, and some will follow vs:
Besides, there is hope from France: heres an embassador
That promiseth both men and money too.
The commons likewise (as we heare) pretend
A sodaine tumult, we wil ioyne with them.

Cobb. Some likelihoode, I must confesse, to speede:
But how shall I beleuee this is plaine truth?
You are (my lords) such men as liue in Court,
And highly haue beene fauour'd of the king,
Especially lord Scroope, whome oftentimes
He maketh choice of for his bedfellow.
And you lord Gray are of his priuy councill:
Is not this a traine to intrappe my life?

Camb. Then perish may my soule: what thinke you so?

Scroope VVe cle sweare to you.

Gray Or take the sacrament.

Cobb. Nay you are noble men, and I imagine,
As you are honorable by birth, and bloud,
So you will be in heart, in thought, in word.
I craue no other testimony but this.
That you would all subscribe, and set your hands
Vnto this writing which you gaue to me.

Camb. VVith all our hearts: who hath any pen and inke?

Scroope My pocket should haue one: yea, heere it is.

Camb. Giue it me lord Scroope: there is my name.

Scroope And there is my name.

Gray

ſir Iohn Old-castle

Gray And mine.

Cobb. Sir, let me craue,

That you would likewise write your name with theirs,
For confirmation of your maisters word,
The king of Fraunce.

Char. That will I noble Lord.

Cobb. So now this action is well knit together,
And I am for you : where's our meeting, lords?

Camb. Here if you please, the tenth of Iuly next.

Cobb. In Kent? agreed : now let vs in to supper,
I hope your honors will not away to night.

Camb. Yes presently, for I haue farre to ride,
About ſolliciting of other friends.

Scroope And we would not be absent from the court,
Leſt thereby grow ſuſpition in the king.

Cobb. Yet taſte a cup of wine before ye go.

Camb. Not now my lord, we thanke you : ſo farewell.

Cob. Farewell my noble lordes : my noble lords?

My noble villaines, baſe conſpirators,
How can they looke his Highneſſe in the face,
Whome they ſo cloſly ſtudy to betray?

But ile not ſleepe vntill I make it knowne.

This head ſhall not be burdned with ſuch thoughts,

Nor in this heart will I conceale a deede

Offuch impietie againſt my king.

Madam, how now?

Enter Harpoole and the reſt.

Lady Cobb. You are welcome home, my Lord,

Why ſeeme ye ſo diſquiet in your lookes?

What hath beſalne you that diſquiets your minde?

Lady Po. Bad newes I am afraid touching my husband.

Cobb. Madam, not ſo : there is your husbands pardon,
Long may ye liue, each ioy vnto the other.

Poweſſe So great a kindneſſe as I knowe not howe to make reply, my ſenſe is quite confounded.

Cobb. Let that alone : and madam ſtay me not,
For I muſt backe vnto the court againe

The first part of

With all the speede I can : Harpoole, my horse.

Lady Cob. So soone my Lord? what will you ride all night?

Cobham All night or day it must be so, sweete wife,

Urge me not why, or what my businesse is;

But get you in: Lord Powelle, beare with me,

And madam, thinke your welcome nere the worse:

My house is at your vse. Harpoole, away.

Harp. Shall I attend your lordship to the court?

Cobb. Yea sir, your gelding, mount you presently exe.

Lady Cobb. I prythee Harpoole, looke vnto thy Lord,
I do not like this sodaine posting backe.

Powe. Some earnest businesse is a foote belike, Whate're it be, pray God be his good guide.

Lady Po. Amen that hath so highly vs bested.

Lady Co. Come madam, and my lord, weele hope the best,
You shall not into Wales till he returne.

Powesse Though great occasion be we should departe, yet madam will we stay to be resolute, of this vnlookt for doubtful accident. Exeunt.

Enter Murley and his men, prepared in some filthy order for warre.

Murj. Come my hearts of flint, modestly, decently, soberly, and handsomly, no man afore his Leader, follow your master, your Captaine, your Knight that shall be, for the honor of Meale-men, Millers, and Mault-men dunne is the mowse, Dicke and Tom for the credite of Dunstable, ding downe the enemye to morrow. ye shall not come into the field like beggars, where be Leonard and Laurence my two leaders, Lord haue mercie vpon vs, what a world is this? I would giue a couple of shillings for a dozen of good fetters for ye, and forty pence for as many skaffes to set ye out withall, frost and snow, a man has no heart to fight till he be braue.

Dicke Master I hope we be no babes, for our manhood, our bucklers, and our towne foote-balls can beare withelles and this lite parrell we haue shall off, and weel fight naked fore we runne away.

Tom. Nay, I am of Laurence mind for that, for he meanes

sir John Old-castle.

to leaue his life behind him, he and Leonard your two loaders are making their wills because they haue wiues, now we Bachelers bid our friends scramble for our goods if we die: but master, pray ye let me ride vpon Cutte.

Murly Meale and salt, wheat and mault, fire and tow, frost and snow, why Tom thou shalt let me see, here are you, William and George are with my cart, and Robin and Hodge holding my owne two horses, proper men, handfom men, tall men, true men.

Dicke But master, master, me thinkes you are a mad man, to hazard your owne person and a cart load of money too.

Tom. Yea, and maister theres a worse matter in t, if it be as I heard say, we go to fight against all the learned Bishops, that should giue vs their blessing, and if they curse vs, we shall speede nere the better.

Dicke Nay bir lady, some say the King takes their part, and master, dare you fight against the King?

Murly Fie paltry, paltry in and out, to and fro vpon occasion, if the King be so vnwise to come there, weele fight with him too.

Tom. What if ye should kill the King?

Mur. Then weele make another.

Dicke Is that all, do ye not speake treason?

Mur. If we do, who dare trippe vs? we come to fight for our conscience, and for honor, little know you what is in my bosome looke here madde knaues, a paire of guilt spurres.

Tom. A paire of golden spurres? why do you not put them on your heeles? your bosome's no place for spurres.

Mur. Bee't more or lesse vpon occasion, Lord haue mercy vs, Tom th'art a foole, and thou speakest treason to knight-hood, dare any weare golden or siluer spurs til he be a knight? no, I shall be knighted to morrow, and then they shall on: sirs, was it euer read in the church booke of Dunstable, that euer mault man was made knight?

Tom. No but you are more, you are meal-man, maultman, miller, corne-master and all.

Dicke

The first part of

Dicke Yea, and halfe a brewer too, and the diuell and all for wealth, you bring more money with you, than all the rest.

Mur. The more's my honor, I shall be a knight to morow, let me spose my men, Tom vpon cutte, Dicke vpon hobbe, Hodge vpon Ball, Raph vpon Sorell, and Robin vpon the forehorse.

Enter Acton, Bourne, and Beuerley.

Tom. Stand, who comes there?

Act. Al friends, good fellow.

Mur. Friends and fellowes indeede sir Roger.

Act. Why thus you shew your selfe a Gentleman, To keepe your day, and come so well preparte, Your cart stands yonder, guarded by your men, Who tell me it is loaden well with coine, What summe is there?

Mur. Ten thousand pound sir Roger, and modestly, decently, soberly, and handsomely, see what I haue here against I be knighted.

Act. Gilt spurs? tis well.

Mur. But where's our armie sir?

Act. Disperst in sundry villages about, Some here with vs in Hygate, some at Finchley, Totnam, Enfield, Edmunton, Newington, Ifflington, Hogsdon, Pancredge, Kenzington, Some neerer Thames, Ratchiffe, Blackwall and Bow, But our chiefe strength must be the Londoners, Which ete the Sunne to morrow shine, Will be nere fiftie thousand in the field.

Mur. Mary God dild ye dauntie my deere, but vpon occasion sir Roger Acton, doth not the King know of it, and gather his power against vs.

Act. No, hee's secure at Eltham.

Mur. What do the Cleargie?

Act. Feare extreamly, yet prepare no force.

Mur. In and out, to and fro, Bullie my boikin, we shall carry carry the world afore vs, I vow by my worshipp, when I am knighted, weele take the King napping, if he stand on their part.

Act. This night we few in Higate will repose,
With the first cocke weele rise and arme our selues;
To be in Ficket field by breake of day,
And there expect our Generall.

Mur. Sir Old-castle, what if he come not Iohn?

Bourne. Yet our action stands,
Sir Roger Acton may supplie his place.

Mur. True M. Bourne, but who shall make me knight?

Bourne. He that hath power to be our Generall.

Act. Talke not of trifles, come let's away,
Our friends of London long till it be day.

exunt.

Enter sir Iohn of Wrootham and Doll.

Doll. By my troth, thou art as lealous a man as liues.

Priest. Canst thou blame me Doll, thou art my lands, my goods, my iewels, my wealth, my purse, no walk within forty miles of London, but a plies thee as truly, as the parish does the poore mans boxe.

Doll. I am as true to thee, as the stone is in the wal, and thou knowest well enough sir Iohn, I was in as good doing, when I came to thee, as any wench heere to be: and therefore thou hast tried me that thou hast: by Gods body, I wil not be kept as I haue bin, that I wil not.

Priest. Doll, if this blade holde; thers not a pedler walkes with a pack, but thou shalt as boldly chuse of his wares, as with thy ready mony in a Marchants shop, weele haue as good siluer as the King coynes any.

Doll. What is al the gold spent you tooke the last day from the Courtier?

Priest. Tis gone Doll, tis stown, merely come, merely gon, he comes a horse backe that must pay for all; weele haue as good meate, as mony can get, and as good gownes, as can be bought for gold, be mery wench; the maist-maist coms on munday.

The first part of

Doll You might haue left me at Cobham, vntil you had bin better prouided for.

Priest No sweet Doll, no, I do not like that, yond old ruffian is not for the priest, I do not like a new cleark should come in the old bel-frie.

Doll Ah thou art a mad priest yfaith.

Priest Come Doll, Ile see thee safe at some alehouse here at Cray, and the next sheepe that comes shall leaue his fleccc.

exunt.

Enter the King, Suffolke and Butler.

King in great hast. My lord of Suffolke, poste away for life, And let our forces of such horse and foote, As can be gathered vp by any meanes, Make speedy randeuow in Tuttle fields, It must be done this euening my Lord, This night the rebels meane to draw to head Neere Hlinton, which if your speede preuent not, If once they should vnite their seuerall forces, Their power is almost thought inuincible, Away my Lord I will be with you soone.

Suf. I go my Soueraigne with all happie speede. exit

King Make haste my lord of Suffolke as you loue vs, Butler, poste you to London with all speede. Commaund the Maior, and shrieues, on their alegiance, The cittie gates be presently shut vp, And guarded with a strong sufficient watch, And not a man be suffered to passe, Without a speciall warrant from our selfe. Commaund the Posterne by the Tower be kept, And proclunation on the paine of death, That not a citizen stirre from his doores, Except such as the Maior and Shrieues shall chuse, For their owne garde, and safety of their persons, Butler away, haue care vnto my charge.

But. I goe my Soucraigne.

King Butler.

But.

Sir Iohn Old-castle.

But. My Lord.

King Goe downe by Greenwich, and command a boate,
At the Friers bridge attend my comming downe.

But. I will my Lord.

exit

King It's time I thinke to looke vnto rebellion,
When Acton doth expect vnto his ayd,
No lesse then fiftie thousand Londoners,
Well, Ile to Westminster in this disguise,
To heare what newes is stirring in these brawles.

Exter sir Iohn.

Sir Iohn Stand true-man saies a thiefe.

King Stand thiefe, saies a true man, how if a thiefe?

Sir Iohn Stand thiefe too.

King Then thiefe or true-man I see I must stand, I see how foeuer the world wagges, the trade of theeuing yet will neuer downe, what art thou?

Sir Iohn A good fellow.

King So am I too, I see thou dost know me.

Sir Iohn. If thou be a good fellow, play the good fellowes part, deliuer thy purse without more adoe.

King. I haue no mony.

Sir Iohn I must make you find some before we part, if you haue no mony you shal haue ware, as many sound drie blows as your skin can carrie.

King Is that the plaine truth?

Sir Iohn Sirra no more adoe, come, come, giue me the mony you haue, dispatch, I cannot stand all day.

King Wel, if thou wilt needs haue it, there tis: iust the prouerb, one thiefe robs another, where the diuel are all my old theeues, that were wont to keepe this walke? Falstaffe the villaine is so fat, he cannot get on's horse, but me thinks Poinces and Peto should be stirring here abouts.

Sir Iohn How much is there on't of thy word?

King A hundred pound in Angels, on my word,
The time has beene I would haue done as much
For thee, if thou hadst past this way, as I haue now.

The first part of

fir Iohn Sirra, what art thou, thou seem'st a gendeman

King I am no lesse, yet a poore one now, for thou hast all my mouy.

fir Iohn From whence cam'st thou?

King From the court at Eltham.

fir Iohn Art thou one of the Kings seruants?

King Yes that I am, and one of his chamber.

fir Iohn I am glad thou art no worse, thou maist the better spare thy mony, & thinkst thou thou mightst get a poor thiefe his pardon if he should haue neede.

King Yes that I can.

fir Iohn Wilt thou do so much for me, when I shall haue occasion?

King Yes faith will I, so it be for no murther.

fir Iohn Nay, I am a pittifull thiefe, all the hurt I do a man, I take but his purse, Ile kill man.

King Then of my word Ile do it.

fir Iohn Giue me thy hand of the fame.

King There tis.

fir Iohn Me thinks the King should be good to theeues, because he has bin a thiefe himselfe, though I thinke now he be turned true-man.

King Faith I haue heard indeed he has had an ill name that way in his youth, but how canst thou tell he has beene a thiefe?

fir Iohn How? because he once robde me before I fell to the trade my selfe, when that foule villainous guts, that led him to all that rogerie, was in's company there, that Falstaffe.

King aside. Well if he did rob thee then, thou art but euen with him now Ile be sworne, thou knowest not the king now, I thinke, if thou sawest him?

fir Iohn Not I yfaith,

King aside. So it should seeme.

fir Iohn Well, if old King Henry had liu'de, this King that is now, had made theeuing the best trade in England.

King

ſir Iohn Old-castle.

King Why ſo?

ſir Iohn Becauſe he was the chiefe warden of our company, it's pittie that ere he ſhould haue bin a King, he was ſo braue a thiefe, but ſirra, wilt remember my pardon if neede be?

King Yes faith will I.

ſir Iohn Wilt thou? well then becauſe thou ſhalt go ſafe, for thou mayeſt hap (being ſo carely) be met with againe, before thou come to Southwarke, if any man when he ſhould bid thee good morrow, bid thee ſtand, ſay thou but ſir Iohn, and he will let thee paſſe.

King Is that the word? well then let me a lone.

ſir Iohn Nay ſirra, becauſe I thinke indeede I ſhall haue ſome occaſion to uſe thee, & as thou comſt oft this way, I may light on thee another time not knowing thee, here, ile breake this Angell, take thou halfe of it, this is a token betwixt thee and me.

King. God haue mercy, farewell.

exit

ſir Iohn O my fine golden ſlaues, heres for thee wench yfaith, now Dol, we wil reucl in our beuer this is a tyth pigge of my vicaridge, God haue mercy neighbour Shooters hill, you paid your tyth honeſtly. Wel I heare there is a company of rebelles vp againſt the King, got together in Fickle field neere Holboine, and as it is thought here in Kenr, the King will be there to night in's owne perſon, well ile to the Kings camp, and it ſhall go hard, but if there be any doings, Ile make ſome good booté amongſt them.

Enter King Henry, Suffolke, Huntington, and two with lights.

K. Hen. My Lords of Suffolke and of Huntington,
Who ſkours it now? or who ſtands Sentinells?
What men of worth? what Lords do walke the round?

Suff. May it pleaſe your Highneſſe.

K. Hen. Peace, no more of that,
The King's aſleepe, wake not his maieſtie,

The first part of

With termes nor titles, hee's at rest in bed,
Kings do not vse to watch themselves, they sleepe,
And let rebellion and conspiracie,
Reuel and hauocke in the common wealth,
Is London lookt vnto?

Hunt. It is my Lord,
Your noble Vncle Exceter is there,
Your brother Gloucester and my Lord of Warwicke,
Who with the maior and the Aldermen,
Do guard the gates, and keepe good rule within,
The Earle of Cambridge, and sir Thomas Gray,
Do walke the Round, Lord Scroope and Butler skout,
So though it please your maiestie to iest,
Were you in bed, well might you take your rest.

K. Hen. I thank ye Lords, but you do know of old,
That I haue bin a perfect night-walker,
London you say is safely lookt vnto,
Alas poore rebels, there your ayd must faile,
And the Lord Cobham sir Iohn Old-castle,
Hee's quiet in Kent, Afton ye are deceiu'd,
Reckon againe, you count without your host,
To morrow you shall giue account to vs,
Til when my friends, this long cold winters night,
How can we spend? King Harry is a sleepe,
And al his Lords, these garments tel vs so,
Al friends at footebal, fellowes all in field,
Harry, and Dicke, and George, bring vs a drumme,
Giue vs square dice, weele keepe this court of guard,
For al good fellowes companies that come.
Wheres that mad priest ye told me was in Armes,
To fight, as wel as pray, if neede required?

Suff. Hees in the Camp, and if he knew of this,
I vndertake he would not be long hence.

Har. Trippe Dicke, Trippe George. they trippe.

Hunt. I must haue the dice,
What do we play at?

the play at dice.

Suff.

sir Iohn Old-castle

Suff. Passage if ye please.

Hunt. Set round then, so, at all.

Har. George, you are out.

Giue me the dice, I passe for twentie pound,
Heres to our luckie passage into France.

Hunt. Harry you passe indeede for you sweepe all.

Suff. A signe king Harry shal sweepe al in France. ent. sir Iohn

sir Iohn Edge ye good fellowes, take a fresh gamster in.

Har. Master Parlon? we play nothing but gold?

sir Iohn. And fellow, I tel thee that the priest hath gold, gold?
sbloud ye are but beggerly souldiers to me, I thinke. I haue more gold than all you three,

Hunt. It may be so, but we belecue it not.

Har. Set priest set, I passe for all that gold.

sir Iohn Ye passe indeede.

Harry Priest, hast thou any more?

sir Iohn Zounds what a question's that?

I tell thee I haue more then all you three,

At these ten Angells.

Harry. I wonder how thou comst by all this gold,
How many benefices hast thou priest?

sir Iohn Yfaith but one, dost wonder how I come by gold?
I wonder rather how poore souldiers should haue gold, for
He tell thee good fellow, we haue euery day tythes, offerings, christnings, weddings, burials: and you poore snakes come feldome to a bootie. He speake a prouwd word, I haue but one parsonage, Wrootham, tis better than the Bishopprick of Rochester, theres nere a hill, heath, nor downe in all Kent, but tis in my parish, Barrham downe, Chobham downe, Gads hill, Wrootham hill, Blacke heath, Cockes heath, Birchen wood, all pay me tythe, gold quoth a? ye passe not for that.

Suff. Harry ye are out, now parson shake the dice.

sir Iohn. Set, set He couer ye, at al: A plague on't I am out, the diuell, and dice, and a wench, who will trust them?

Suff. Saist thou so priest? set faire, at all for once.

Har. Out sir, pay all.

sir Iohn

The first part of fir Iohn Sbloud pay me angel gold,

Ile none of your crackt French crownes nor pistolets,
Pay me faire angel gold, as I pay you.

Har. No crackt french crownes? I hope to see more crackt french crownes ere long.

fir Iohn Thou meanest of French mens, crownes when the King is in France.

Hunt. Set round, at all.

fir Iohn Pay all: this is some hucke.

Har. Give me the dice, tis I must shread the priest:
At all fir Iohn.

fir Iohn The diuell and all is yours: at that: I death, what casting is this?

Suff. Well throwne Harry yfaith.

Har. Ile cast better yet.

fir Iohn Then Ile be hangd: Sirra, hast thou not giuen thy soule to the diuell for casting?

Har. I passe for all.

fir Iohn Thou passest all that ere I playde withall:
Sirra, dost thou not cogge, nor foist, nor flurre?

Har. Set parson, set, the dice die in my hand:
When parson, when? what can ye finde no more?
Alreadie die: wast you bragd of your store?

fir Iohn Alls gone but that.

Hunt. What, halfe a broken angel?

fir Iohn Why fir, tis gold.

Har. Yes, and Ile couer it.

fir Iohn The diuell do ye good on't, I am blinde, yee haue blowne me vp.

Har. Nay tarry priest, ye shall not leaue vs yet,
Do not these peeces fit each other well?

fir Iohn What if they do?

Har. Thereby begins a tale:
There was a thiefe, in face much like fir Iohn,
But 'was not hee, that thiefe was all in greene,
Met me last day on Blacke Heath, nere the park,

with

Sir John Old-castle.

With him a woman, I was al alone,
And weaponlesse, my boy had al my tooles,
And was before prouiding me a boate:
Short tale to make, sir John, the thiefe I meane,
Tooke a iust hundreth pound in gold from me.
I storm'd at it, and swore to be reueng'd
If ere we met, he like a lusty thiefe,
Brake with his teeth this Angel iust in two,
To be a token at our meeting next,
Prouided, I should charge no Officer
To apprehend him, but at weapons point
Recouer that, and what he had beside.
Well met sir John, betake ye to your tooles
By torch light, for master parson you are he
That had my gold.

for Iohn. Zounds I won't in play, in faire square play of the keeper of Eltham parke, and that I will maintaine with this poore whinyard, be you two honest men to stand and looke vpon's, and let's alone, and take neither part.

Har. Agreede, I charge ye do not boudge a foot,
Sir Iohn haue at ye.

for Iohn. Souldier ware your skonce.

Here as they are ready to strike, enter Butler and drawes his weapon and steps betwixt them.

But. Hold villaines hold, my Lords, what do ye meane,
To see a traitor draw against the King?

for Iohn. The King! Gods wil, I am in a proper pickle.

Har. Butler what newes? why dost thou trouble vs?

But. Please it your Highnesse, it is breake of day,

And as I skouted neere to Islington,
The gray cy'd morning gaue me glimmering,
Of armed men comming downe Hygate hill,
Who by their course are coasting hitherward.

Har. Let vs withdraw, my Lords, prepare our troopes,
To charge the rebels, if there be such cause,
For this lewd priest, this dimelish hypocrite,

G

That

The first part of

That is a thiefe, a gamster, and what not,
Let him be hang'd vp for example sake.

fir Iohn Not so my gracious soueraigne, I confesse I am a frayle man, flesh and bloud as other are: but set my imperfections aside, by this light ye haue not a taller man, nor a truer subiect to the Crowne and State, than fir Iohn of VVrootham.

Har. Wil a true subiect robbe his King?

fir Iohn Alas twas ignorance and want, my gracious liege.

Har. T was want of grace: why, you should be, as salt
To season others with good document,
Your liues as lampes to giue the people light,
As shepheards, not as wolues to spoile the flock,
Go hang hm Butler.

But. Didst thou not rob me?

fir Iohn I must confesse I saw some of your gold, but my dread Lord, I am in no humor for death, therefore saue my life, God will that sinners liue, do not you cause me die, once in their liues the best may goe astray, and if the world say true, your selfe (my liege) haue bin a thiefe.

Har. I confesse I haue,

But I repent and haue reclaimd my selfe.

fir Iohn So will I do if you will giue me time.

Har. Wilt thou? my lords, will you be his suerties?

Hunt. That when he robs againe, he shall be hang'd.

fir Iohn I aske no more.

Har. And we will grant thee that,
Liue and repent, and proue an honest man,
Which when I heare, and safe returne from France,
He giue thee liuing, till when take thy gold,
But spend it better then at cards or wine,
For better vertues fit that coate of thine.

fir Iohn Vnius Rex & currat lex, my liege, if ye haue caus'd of battell, ye shall see fir Iohn of Wrootham bestire himself in your quarrel.

After an alarm enter Harry, Suffolk, Humington, fir Iohn, bringing forth Aclon, Benerly, and Murley prisoners.

Har.

sir Iohn Old-castle.

Har. Bring in those traitors, whose aspiring minds,
Thought to haue triumpht in our ouerthrow,
But now ye see, base villaines, what successe
Attends ill actions wrongfully attempted.
Sir Roger Acton, thou retainst the name
Of knight, and shouldst be more discreetly temperd,
Than ioyne with peasants, gentry is diuine,
But thou hast made it more then popular.

Act. Pardon my Lord, my conscience vrg'd me to it,

Har. Thy conscience? then thy conscience is corrupt;
For in thy conscience thou art bound to vs,
And in thy conscience thou shouldst loue thy country,
Else what's the difference twixt a Christian,
And the vnciuil manners of the Turke?

Beuer. We meant no hurt vnto your maiesty,
But reformation of Religion.

Har. Reforme Religion? was it that ye sought?
I pray who gaue you that authority?
Belike then we do hold the scepter vp,
And sit within the throne but for a cipher,
Time was, good subjects would make knowne their grieffe,
And pray amendment, not inforce the same,
Vnlesse their King were tyrant, which I hope
You cannot iustly say that Harry is,
What is that other?

Suff. A mault-man my Lord,
And dwelling in Dunstable as he saies.

Har. Sirra what made you leaue your barley broth,
To come in armour thus against your King?

Mur. Fie paltry, paltry to and fro, in and out vpon occasion, what a worlde's this? knight-hood (my liege) twas knighthood brought me hither, they told me I had wealth enough to make my wife a lady.

Har. And so you brought those horses which we saw,
Trapt all in costly furniture, and meant
To weare these spurs when you were knighted once.

The first part of

Mur. In and out vpon occasion I did.

Har. In and out vpon occasion, therefore you shall be hang'd, and in the sted of wearing these spurres vpon your heeles, about your necke they shall bewray your folly to the world.

fir Iohn. In and out vpon occasion, that goes hard.

Mur. Fic paltry paltry, to and fro, good my liege a pardon, I am sery for my fault.

Har. That comes too late: but tell me, went there none Beside fir Roger Acton, vpon whom You did depend to be your gouernour?

Mur. None none my Lord, but fir Iohn Old-castle.

Har. Beares he part in this conspiracie. enter Bishop

Act. We lookt my Lord that he would meet vs here.

Har. But did he promise you that he would come.

Act. Such letters we receiued forth of Kent.

Bish. Where is my Lord the King's health to your grace,
Examining my Lord some of these caitiue rebels,
It is a generall voyce amongst them all,
That they had neuer come vnto this place,
But to haue met their valiant general,
The good Lord Cobham as they tild him,
Whereby, my Lord, your grace may now perceiue,
His treason is apparant, which before
He sought to colour by his flattery.

Har. Now by my roialtie I would haue sworne,
But for his conscience, which I beare withall,
There had not liud a more true hearted subiect.

Bish. It is but counterfeit my gracious lords,
And therefore may it please your maiestie,
To set your hand vnto this precept here,
By which weel cause him forthwith to appeare,
And answer this by order of the law.

Har. Bishop, not only that, but take commission,
To search, attach, imprison, and condemne,
This most notorious traitor as you please.

Bish.

Sir John Old-castle.

Bish. It shall be done, my Lord, without delay:
So now I hold Lord Cobham in my hand,
That which shall finish thy disdain'd life.

Har. I thinke the yron age begins but now,
(Which learned poets haue so often taught)
Wherein there is no credit to be giuen,
To either wordes, or lookes, or solemne oathes,
For if there were, how often hath he sworne,
How gently tun de the musicke of his tongue,
And with what amiable face beheld he me,
When all, God knowes, was but hypocrisie. enter Cobham.

Cob. Long life and prosperous raigne vnto my Lord.

Har. Ah villaine, canst thou with prosperitie,
Whose heart includeth naught but treacherie?
I do arrest thee here my selfe, false knight,
Of treason capitall against the State.

Cob. Of treason mightie prince, your grace mistakes,
I hope it is but in the way of mirth.

Har. Thy necke shall feele it is in earnest shordy,
Darst thou intrude into our presence, knowing
How haynously thou hast offended vs?
But this is thy accustomed deceit,
Now thou perceiust thy purpose is in vaine,
With some excuse or other thou wilt come,
To cleere thy selfe of this rebellion.

Cob. Rebellion good my Lord, I know of none.

Har. If you deny it, here is euidence,
See you these men, you neuer counselled,
Nor offerd them assistance in their warres

Cob. Speake sirs, not one but all, I craue no fauour, Haue cuer I beene conuersant with you,
Or written letters to incourage you,
Or kindled but the least or smallest part,
Of this your late vnnaturall rebellion?
Speake for I dare the vttermost you can.

Mur. In and out vpon occasion I know you not.

The first part of

Har. No, didst not say that sir John Old-castle,
Was one with whom you purposde to haue met?

Mur. True, I did say so, but in what respect?
Because I heard it was reported so.

Har. Was there no other argument but that?

Alf. To cleere my conscience ere I die my lord,
I must confesse, we haue no other ground
But only Rumor, to accuse this lord,
Which now I see was merely fabulous.

Har. The more pernicious you to taint him then,
Whome you knew not was faulty yea or no.

Cobb. Let this my Lord, which I present your grace
Speake for my loyaltie, reade these articles,
And then giue sentence of my life or death.

Har. Earle Cambridge, Scroope, and Gray corrupted
With bribes from Charles of France, either to winne
My Crowne from me, or secretly contriue
My death by treason? Is this possible?

Cobb. There is the platforme, and their hands, my lord,
Each seuerally subscribed to the same.

Har. Oh neuer heard of base ingratitude!
Euen those I hugge within my bosome most,
Are readiest euermore to sting my heart.
Pardon me Cobham, I haue done thee wrong,
Heereafter I will liue to make amends.

Is then their time of meeting so neere hand?
Weele meete with them, but little for their ease,
If God permit: goe take these rebells hence,
Let them haue martiall law: but as for thee,
Friend to thy king and country, still be free.

Exeunt.

Mur. Be it more or lesse, what a world is this?
Would I had continued still of the order of knaues,
And neuer sought knighthood, since it costes
So deere: sir Roger, I may thanke you for all.

Alfon. Now tis too late to haue it remedied,
I priethee Murley doe not vige me with it.

Hum.

sir Iohn Old-castle

Hunt. Will you away, and make no more to do?

Murl. Fy paltry paltry, to and fro, as occasion serues,
If you be so hasty take my place.

Hunt. No good sir knight, you shall begin in your hand.

Murl. I could be glad to giue my betters place. Exeunt.

Enter Bishop, lord Warden, Croamer the Shrieue, Lady Cob. and attendants.

Bishop I tell ye Lady, its not possible
But you should know where he conueies himselfe,
And you haue hid him in some secret place.

Lady My Lord, belecue me, as I haue a foule,
I know not where my lord my husband is.

Bishop. Go to, go to, ye are an heretike,
And will be forc'd by torture to confesse,
If faire meanes will not serue to make ye tell.

Lady My husband is a noble gentleman,
And neede not hide himselfe for anie fact
That ere I heard of, therefore wrong him not.

Bishop Your husband is a dangerous schismaticke,
Traitor to God, the King, and common wealth,
And theretofore master Croamer shrieue of Kent,
I charge you take her to your custodie,
And ceaze the goods of Sir Iohn Old-castle
To the Kings vse, let her go in no more,
To fetch so much as her apparell out,
There is your warrant from his maiestie.

L. War. Good my Lord Bishop pacifie your wrath Against the Lady.

Bish. Then let her confesse
Where Old-castle her husband is conceald.

L. War. I dare engage mine honor and my life,
Poore gentlewoman, she is ignorant,
And innocent of all his practises,
If any euill by him be practised.

Bish. If my Lord Warden may then I charge you,

Tha

Shew him his highnesse warrant M. Shricue.

L. War. I am sorie for the noble gentleman, *Enter Old ca-
Bish.* Peace, he comes here, now do your office. fle & Harp.

Old-castle Harpoole what businesse haue we here in hand?
VWhat makes the Bishop and the Shriffe here,
I feare my comming home is dangerous,
I would I had not made such haste to Cobham.

Harp. Fe of good cheere my Lord, if they befoes weede scramble shrewdly with them, if they be friends they are welcome: one of them (my Lord Warden) is your friend, but me thinkes my ladie weepes, I like not that.

Croo. Sir John Old-castle Lord Cobham, in the Kings maiesties name, I arrest ye of high treason.

Oldca. Treason M. Croomes?

Harp. Treason M. Shricue, sblood what treason?

Oldca. Harpoole I charge thee stirre not, but be quiet still,
Do ye arrest me M. Shricue for treason?

Bish. Yea of high treason, traitor, heretike.

Oldca. Defiance in his face that calls me so,
I am as true a loyall gentleman

Vnto his highnesse, as my proudest enemy,
The King shall witness my late faithfull seruice,
For safety of his sacred maiestie.

Bish. VWhat thou art, the kings hand shall testifie, Shewt him Lord Warden.

Old. Iesu defend me,
Is't possible your cunning could so temper
The princely disposition of his mind,
To signe the damage of a royall subiect?
Well, the best is, it beares an antedate,
Procured by my absence, and your malice,
But I, since that, haue shewd my selfe as true,
As any churchman that dare challenge me,
Let me be brought before his maiestie,

sir Fohn Old-castle.

If he acquite me not, then do your worst.

Bish. We are not bound to do kind offices
For any traitor, schismaticke, nor heretike,
The kings hand is our warrant for our worke,
Who is departed on his way for France,
And at Southhampton doth repose this night.

Harp. O that it were the blessed will of God, that thou and I were within twenty mile of it, on Salisbury plaine! I would lose my head if euer thou broughtst thy head hither againe.

Oldca. My Lord Warden o'th cinque Ports, & my Lord of Rochester, ye are ioynt Commissioners, fauor me so much,
On my expence to bring me to the king.

Bish. What, to Southhampton?

Oldca. Thither my god Lord,
And if he do not cleere me of al guilt,
And all suspicion of conspiracie,
Pawning his princely warrant for my truth:
I aske no fauour, but extreamest torture.
Bring me, or send me to him, good my Lord,
Good my Lord Warden, M Shrieue, entreate.

Here the Lord Warden, and Cromer vncover to the Bishop, and secretly whispers with him.

Come hither lady, nay, sweet wife forbear,
To heape one sorrow on anothers necke,
Tis griefe enough falsly to be accusde,
And not permitted to acquite my selfe,
Do not thou with thy kind respectiue teares,
Torment thy husbands heart that bleedes for thee,
But be of comfort, God hath help in store,
For those that put assured trust in him.
Deere wife, if they commit me to the Tower,
Come vp to London to your sisters house:
That being neere me, you may comfort me.
One solace find I settled in my soule,
That I am free from treasons very thought,

Only my conscience for the Gospels sake,
Is cause of all the troubles I sustaine.

Lady. O my deere Lord, what shall betide of vs?
You to the Tower, and I turnd out of doores,
Our substance ceaz'd vnto his highnesse vse,
Euen to the garments longing to our backes.

Harp. Patience good madame, things at worst will mend,
And if they doe not, yet our liues may end.

Bish. Urge it no more, for if an Angell spake,
I sweare by sweet saint Peters blessed keyes,
First goes he to the Tower, then to the stake.

Crom. But by your leaue, this warrant doth not stretch
To imprison her.

Bishop No, turne her out of doores, L. Warden and Euen as she is, and leade him to the Tower, Oldcastle whisper.
With guard enough for feare of rescuing.

Lady O God requite thee thou bloud-thirsty man.

Oldca. May it not be my Lord of Rochester?
Wherein haue I incurd your hate so farre,
That my appeale vnto the King's denide?

Bish. No hate of mine, but power of holy church,
Forbids all fauor to false heretikes.

Oldca. Your priuate malice more than publike power,
Strikes most at me, but with my life it ends.

Harp. O that I had the Bishop in that feare, aside
That once I had his Sumner by our felues.

Crom. My Lord yet graunt one sute vnto vs all,
That this same auncient seruing man may waite
Vpon my lord his master in the Tower.

Bish. This old iniquitie, this heretike?
That in contempt of our church discipline,
Compeld my Sumner to deuoure his processe?
Old Ruffian past-grace, vpstart schismatike,
Had not the King prayd vs to pardon ye,
Ye had fryed for it, ye grizild heretike.

Harp. Shloud my lord Bishop, ye do me wrong, I am neither

for Iohn Old-castle

ther heretike nor-puritane, but of the old church, ile swear, drinke ale, kisse a wench, go to masse, eate fish all Lent, and fast fridaies with cakes and wine, fruite and spicerie, shriue me of my old sinnes afore Easter, and begiame new afore whitsontide.

Crom. A merie mad conceited knaue my lord.

Harp. That knaue was simply put vpon the Bishop.

Bish. - VVel, God forgie him and I pardon him.

Let him attend his master in the Tower,

For I in charity with his soule ne hurt.

Oldca. God blesse my soule from such cold charitie,

Bish. Too th Tower with him, and when my leisure serues,
I will examine him of Articles,

Looke my lord Warden as you haue in charge,

The Shriue performe his office.

L.Ward. Yes my lord.

Enter the Sumner with bookes.

Bish. VVhat bringst thou there? what bookes of heresie.

Som. Yea my lord, heres not a latine booke,

No not so much as our ladies Psalter,

Heres the Bible, the testament, the Psalmes in meter,

The sickemans salue, the treasure of gladnesse,

And al in English, not so much but the Almanack's English.

Bish. Away with them, to th fire with them Clun,

Now fie vpon these vpstart heretikes,

Al English, burne them, burne them quickly Clun.

Harp. But doe not Sumner as youle answere it, for I haue there English bookes my lord, that ile not part with for your Bishoppricke, Beuis of Hampton, Owleglasse, the Frier and the Boy, Ellen of Rumming, Robin hood, and other such godly stories, which if ye burne, by this flesh ile make ye drink their ashes in S. Margets ale. exennt.

luerie coates.*

I. Ser. Is it your honors pleasure we shal stay,
Or come backe in the afternoone to fetch you.

You may go backe vnto the Porters Lodge,
And send for drinke or such things as you want,

Into the cittie go not, I commaund you,
Perhaps I may haue present neede to vse you.

2 We will attend your worship here without.

Bish. Do so, I pray you.

3 Come, we may haue a quart of wine at the Rose at Barking, I warrant you, and come backe an hower before he be ready to go.

1 We must hie vs then.

3 Let's away.

exunt.

Bish. Ho, M. Lieftenant.

Liefien. Who calls there?

Bish. A friend of yours.

Liefien. My lord of Rochester, your honor's welcome.

Bish. Sir heres my warrant from the Counsell,
For conference with sir Iohn Old-castle,
Vpon some matter of great consequence.

Liefien. Ho, sir Iohn.

Harp. Who calls there?

Liefien. Harpoole, tel Sir Iohn, that my lord of Rochester comes from the counsell to conferre with him.

Harp. I will sir.

Lief. I thinke you may as safe without suspition,
As any man in England as I heare,
For it was you most labor'd his commitment.

Bish. I did sir, and nothing repent it I assure you.

Enter sir Iohn Old-castle.

M. Lieftenant I pray you giue vs leaue,
I must conferre here with sir Iohn a little.

Lief. With all my heart my lord.

Harp aside. My lord be rulde by me, take this occasion while tis offered, and on my life your lordship shal escape.

Old-ca.

Sir Iohn Old-castle.

Old-ca. No more I say, peace lest he should suspect it.

Bish. Sir Iohn I am come vnto you from the lords of his highnesse most honorable counsell, to know if yet you do recant your errors, conforming you vnto the holy church.

Old-ca. My lord of Rochester on good aduise,
I see my error, but yet vnderstand me,
I meane not error in the faith I hold,
But error in submitting to your pleasure,
Therefore your lordship without more to do,
Must be a meanes to help me to escape.

Bish. What meanes? thou heretike?
Dartst thou but lift thy hand against my calling?

Sir Iohn No not to hurt you for a thousand pound,

Harp. Nothing but to borrow your vpper garments a little; not a word more, for if you do, you die: peace, for waking the children, there, put them on, dispatch, my lord, the window that goes out into the leads, is sure enough, I told you that before, there, make you ready, ile conuay him after, and bind him surely in the inner roome.

Old-ca. This is wel begun, God send vs happie speed,
Hard shist you see men make in time of need: Harpoole.

Harp. Heere my Lord, come come away.

Enter seruing men againe.

1 I maruell that my lord should stay so long.

2 He hath sent to seeke vs, I dare lay my life.

3 We come in good time, see where he is comming.

Harp. I beseech you good my lord of Rochester, be fauorable to my lord and maister.

Old-ca. The inner roomes be very hot and close,
I do not like this ayre here in the Tower.

Harp. His case is hard my lord, you shall safely get out of the Tower, but I will downe vpon them, in which time get you away.

Old-ca. Fellow thou troublest me.

Harp. Heare me my Lord, hard vnder Illington wait you my comming, I will bring my Lady ready, with horses

Old-ca. Fellow, go back againe vnto thy Lord and counsell him.

Harp. Nay my good lord of Rochester, ile bring you to S. Albons through the woods, I warrant you.

Old-ca. Villaine away.

Harp. Nay since I am past the Towers libertie, thou part'st not so. he drawes.

Bish. Clubbes, clubs, clubs.

1 Murther, murther, murther.

2 Downe with him.

they fight.

3 A villaine traitor.

Harp. You cowardly rogues. fir Iohn escapes.

Enter Lieftenant and his men.

Lief. Who is so bold as dare to draw a sword,
So neare vnto the entrance of the Tower?

1 This ruffian seruant to fir Iohn Old-castle was like to haue slaine my Lord.

Lief. Lay hold on him.

Harp. Stand off if you loue your puddings.

Rochester calls within.

Roch within. Help help, help, M. Lieftenant help.

Lief. Who's that within? some treason in the Tower vpon my life, looke in, who's that which calls? enter Roch. bound.

Lief. Without your cloke my lord of Rochester?

Harp. There, now it workes, then let me speed, for now is the fittest time for me to scape away. exit

Lief. Why do you looke so ghastly and affrighted?

Roch. Old-castle that traitor and his man,
When you had left me to conferre with him,
Tooke, bound, and stript me, as you see,
And left me lying in his inner chamber,
And so departed, and I

Lief. And you ne're say that the Lord Cobhams man
Did here set vpon you like to murther you.

1 And so he did.

Roch.

for Iohn Old-castle.

Roch. It was vpon his master then he did,
That in the brawle the traitor might escape.

Lief. Where is this Harpoole?

2 Here he was euen now.

Lief. Where can you tell? they are both escap'd,
Since it so happens that he is escap'de,
I am glad you are a witnesse of the same,
It might haue else bene laid vnto my charge,
That i had bene consenting to the fact.

Roch. Come, search shal be made for him with expedition, the hauens laid that he shall not escape, and hue and crie continue thorough England, to find this damned dangerous here-tike.

exeunt.

Enter Cambridge, Scroope, and Gray, as in a chamber, and set downe at a table, consulting about their treason: King Harry and Suffolke listning at the doore.

Camb. In mine opinion, Scroope hath well aduis'de,
Poison will be the only aptest meane,
And fittest for our purpose to dispatch him.

Gray But yet there may be doubt in their deliery,
Harry is wise, therefore Earle of Cambridge,
I Iudge that way not so conuenient.

Scroop What thinke ye then of this? I am his bedfellow,
And vn suspected nightly sleepe with him.
VVhat if I venture in those silent houres,
VVhen sleepe hath sealed vp all mortall eies,
To murder him in bed? how like ye that?

Camb. Herein consistes no safetic for your selfe,
And you disclosde, what shall become of vs?
But this day (as ye know) he will aboard,
The wind so faire, and set away for France,
If as he goes, or entring in the ship,
It might be done, then it were excellent,

Gray VVhy any of these, or if you will,
Ile cause a present sitting of the Councell,
VVherein I will pretend some matter of such weight,

As

The first part of

As needes must haue his royall company,
And to dispatch him in the Councell chamber.

Camb. Tush, yet I heare not any thing to purpose,
I wonder that lord Cobham staies so long,
His counsell in this case would much auaille vs.

They rise from the table, and the King step: into them, with his Lordes.

Scroop What shal we rise thus, and determine nothing?

Har. That were a shame indeede, no, sit againe,
And you shall haue my counsell in this case,
If you can find no way to kill this King,
Then you shall see how I can further ye,
Scroopes way by poison was indifferent,
But yet being bed-fellow vnto the King,
And vnsuspected sleeping in his besome,
In mine opinion, that's the liker way,
For such false friends are able to do much,
And silent night is Treason's fittest friend,
Now, Cambridge in his setting hence for France,
Or by the way, or as he goes aboard,
To do the deed, that was indifferent too,
Yet somewhat doubtful; might I speake my mind,
For many reasons needelesse now to vrge.
Mary Lord Gray came something neare the point,
To haue the King at councell, and there murder him,
As Cæsar was amongst his dearest friends:
None like to that, if all were of his mind.
Tell me oh tel me you bright honors staines,
For which of all my kindnesse to you,
Are ye become thus traitors to your king?
And France must haue the spoile of Harries life?

All. Oh pardon vs dread lord. all kneeling.

Har. How pardon ye? that were a sinne indeed,
Drag them to death, which iustly they deserue, they leade
And France shall dearely buy this villany, them away.
So soone as we set footing on her breast,

God

sir Iohn, Old-castle.

God haue the praise for our deliuerance,
And next, our thankes (Lord Cobham) is to thee,
True perfect mirror of nobilitie. exunt.

Enter the hoste, sir Iohn Old-castle, and Harpoole.

Hoste Sir, you are welcome to this house, to such as heere is with all my heart, but by the masse I feare your lodging wil be the woorst, I haue but two beds, and they are both in a chamber, and the carier and his daughter lies in the one, and you and your wife must lie in the other.

L. Cobb. In faith sir, for my selfe I doe not greatly passe, My wife is weary, and would be at rest, For we haue traueled very far to day, We must be content with such as you haue.

Hoste But I cannot tell how to doe with your man.

Harpoole What, hast thou neuer an empty roome in thy house for me?

Hoste Not a bedde by my troth: there came a poore Irish man, and I lodgde him in the barne, where he has faire straw, though he haue nothing else.

Harp. Well mine hoste, I pray thee helpe mee to a payre of faire sheetes, and Ile go lodge with him.

Hoste. By the masse that thou shalt, a good payre of hempen sheetes, were neuer laine in: Come. exunt.

Enter Constable, Maior, and Watch.

Maior What haue you searcht the towne?

Const. All the towne sir, we haue not left a house vnsearcht that vses to lodge.

Maior Surely my lord of Rochester was then deceiude, Or ill informde of sir Iohn Old-castle, Or if he came this way, hees past the towne, He could not else haue scapt you in the search.

Const. The priuy watch hath bene abroad all night, And not a stranger lodgeth in the towne But he is knowne, onely a lusty priest
VVe found in bed with a pretty wench,

The first part of

That sayes she is his wife, yonder at the sheeres:
But we haue chargde the hoste with his forth comming
To morow morning.

Maior What thinke you best to do?

Const. Faith maister maior, heeres a few stragling houfes beyond the bridge; and a little Inne where carriers vse to lodge, though I thinke surely he would nere lodge there: but weele go search, & the rather, because there came notice to the towne the last night of an Irish man, that had done a murder, whome we are to make search for.

Maior Come I pray you, and be circumspect. exunt.

Const. First beset the house, before you begin the search.

Officer Content, euery man take a feuerall place.

heere is heard a great noyse within.

Keepe, keepe, strike him downe there, downe with him.

Enter Constable with the Irish man in Harpooles apparell.

Con. Come you villainous heretique, confesse where your maister is.

Irish man Vat mester?

Maior Vat mester, you counterfeit rebell, this shall not serue your turne.

Irish man Be sent Patrike I haue mester.

Con. VVheres the lord Cobham sir Iohn Old-castle that lately is escaped out of the Tower.

Irish man Vat lort Cobham?

Maior You counterfeit; this shall not serue you, weele torture you, weele make you to confesse where that arch-heretique Lord Cobham is: come binde him fast.

Irish man Ahone, ahone, ahone, a Cree.

Con. Ahone, you crafty rascall? exunt.

Lord Cobham comes out in his gowne stealing.

Cobb. Harpoole, Harpoole, I heare a maruelous noyse about the house, God warant vs, I feare wee are pursued: what Harpoole.

Harp. within. VVho calles there?

Cobb. Tis I, dost thou not heare a noyse about the house?

Harp.

for Iohn Old-castle.

Harp. Yes, mary doe I, zwoonds, I can not finde my hose, this Irish rascall that was lodgde with me all night, hath stolne my apparell, and has left me nothing but a lowlie mantle, and a paire of broags. Get vp, get vp, and if the carier and his wench be asleepe, change you with them as he hath done with me, and see if we can escape.

A noyse againe heard about the house, a pretty while, then enter the Constable meeting Harpooke in the Irish mans apparrell.

Con. Stand close, heere comes the Irish man that didde the murther, by all tokens, this is he.

Maior. And perceiuing the house beset, would get away: stand sirra.

Harp. What art thou that bidst me stand?

Con. I am the Officer, and am come to search for an Irish man, such a villaine as thy selfe, that hast murdered a man this last night by the hie way.

Harp. Sbloud Constable, art thou madde: am I an Irish man?

Maior. Sirra, weele finde you an Irish man before we part: lay hold vpon him.

Con. Make him fast: O thou bloudy rogue!

Enter Lord Cobham and his lady in the carrier and wenchs apparrell.

Cobham. What will these Ostlers sleepe all day? Good morow, good morow, Come wench, come, Saddle, saddle, now afore God too foord: dayes, ha?

Con. Who comes there?

Maior. Oli-tis Lankashire carier, let him passe.

Cobham. What, will no body open the gates here? Come, lets int stable to looke to our capons.

The carrier calling.

Club calling. Hoste, why ostler, zwookes, heres such a bo-mination company of boies: a pox of this pigstie at the house end, it fillles all the house full of fleas, ostler, ostler.

Ostler. Who calles there, what would you haue?

The first part of

Club Zwookes, do you robbe your ghests? doe you lodge rogues and slaues, and scoundrels, ha? they ha stolne our cloths here : why ostler?

Ostler A murrein choake you, what a bawling you keepe.

Hoste How now, what woulde the carrier haue? looke vp there.

Ostler They say that the man and woman that lay by them haue stolne their clothes.

Hoste VVhat, are the strange folkes vp yet that came in yester night?

Const. VVhat mine hoste, vp so early?

Hoste VVhat, maister Maior, and maister Constable?

Maior VVe are come to seeke for some suspected persons, and such as heere we found, haue apprehended.

Enter the Carrier and Kate in lord Cobham and ladies apparell.

Con. VVho comes heere?

Club VVho comes here? a plague found orme, you bawle quoth a, ods hat, Ile forzweare your house, you lodgde a fellow and his wife by vs that ha runne away with our parrel, and left vs such gew-gawes here, come Kate, come to mee, thowse dizeward yfaith.

Maior Mine hoste, know you this man?

Hoste Yes maister Maior, Ile giue my word for him, why neighbor Club, how comes this geare about?

Kate Now a fowle ont, I can not make this gew-gaw stand on my head, now the lads and the lasses won flowt me too too.

Const. How came this man and woman thus attired?

Hoste Here came a man and woman hither this last night, which I did take for substantiall people, and lodgde all in one chamber by these folkes: mee thinkes, haue beene so bold to change apparell, and gone away this morning ere they rose.

Maior That was that villaine traitour Old-castle, that thus escaped vs: make out huy and cry yet after him, keepe fast that traiterous rebell his seruant there: farewell mine hoste.

Carrier Come Kate Owdham, thou and Ie trimly dizard.

Kate Ifaith neame Club, Ie wot nere what to do, Ie be so flowted

Sir Iohn Old-castle.

flowted and so flowted at: but bythi meisse Ise cry.

Enter Priest and Doll.

Sir Iohn Come Del, come, be merry wench,

Farewell Kent, we are not for thee,

Be lusty my lasse, come for Lancashire,

We must nip the Boung for these crownes.

Doll Why is all the gold spent already that you had the other day?

Sir Iohn Gone Doll, gone, flowne, spent, vanished, the diuel, drinke and the dice, has deuoured all.

Doll You might haue left me in Kent, that you might, vnill you had bin better prouided, I could haue staid at Cobham.

Sir Iohn No Dol, no, ile none of that, Kent's too hot Doll, Kent's too hot: the weathercocke of Wrotham will crow no longer, we haue pluckt him, he has lost his feathers, I haue prunde him bare, left him thrice, is moulted, is moulted, wech.

Doll Faith sir Iohn, I might haue gone to seruice againe, old maister Harpoole told me he would prouide me a mistris.

Sir Iohn Peace Doll, peace, come mad wench, Ile make thee an honest woman, weele into Lancashire to our friends, the troth is, Ile marry thee, we want but a little mony to buy vs a horse, and to spend by the way, the next sheep that comes shal loose his fleece, weele haue these crownes: wench I warrant thee: stay, who comes here? some Irish villaine me thinkes that has slaine a man, and drawes him out of the way to riffe him: stand close Doll, weele see the end.

Enter the Irish man with his master slaine.

The Irish man falls to riffe his master.

Alas poe mester, Si Rishard Lee, be saint Patricke is rob and cut thy trote, for dee shaine, and dy money, and dee gold ring, be me truly is loue thee wel, but now dow be kil thee, bee shitten kanaue.

Sir Iohn Stand sirra, what art thou?

Irishman Be saint Patricke mester is pore Irishtan, is a leufter.

Sir Iohn Sirra, sirra, you are a damned rogue, you haue killed a man here, and rifled him of all that he has, sblood you

The first part of rogue deliuer, or ile not leaue you so much as an Irish haire aboue your shoulders, you whorson Irish dogge, sirra vnruffe presently, come off and dispatch, or by this crosse ile fetch your head off as cleane as a barke.

Irishman. Wees me faint Patricke, Ise kill me mester for chaine and his ring, and nows be rob of all, mees vndoo.

Priest robs him.

sir John Auant you rascal, go sirra, be walking, come Doll
the diuel laughs, when one theefe robs another, come madde wench, weele to saint Albons, and reuel in our bower, hey my brave girle.

Doll O thou art old sir John when all's done yfaith.

Enter the hoste of the Bell, with the Irish man.

Irishman Be me tro mester is pore Irishman, is want ludging, is haue no mony, is starue and cold, good mester giue her some meate, is famise and tie.

Host Yfaith my fellow I haue no lodging, but what I keep for my guesse, that I may not disapoint, as for meate thou shalt haue such as there is, & if thou wilt lie in the barne, theres faire straw, and roome enough.

Irishman Is thanke my mester hartily, de straw is good bed for me.

Host Ho Robin?

Robin Who calls?

Host Shew this poore Irishman into the barne, go sirra.

Enter carrier and Kate.

Club. Ho, who's within here, who lookes to the horses?
Gods hatte heres fine worke, the hens in the manger, and the hogs in the litter, a bots found you all, heres a house well lookt too yvaith.

Kate Mas goffe Club, Ise very cawd.

Club. Get in Kate, get in to fier and warme thee.

Club. Ho John Hostler.

Hostler What gaffer Club, welcome to saint Albons,
How does all our friends in Lancashire?

Club.

ſir Iohn Old-castle

Club Well God haue mercie Iohn, how does Tom, wheres he?

Hoſtler O Tom is gone from hence, hees at the three horſe-loues at Stony-ſtratford, how does old Dick Dunne?

Club Gods hatie old Dunne has bin moyerd in a ſlough in Brickhil-lane, a plague found it, yonder is ſuch abhominacion weather as neuer was ſeene.

Hoſtler. Gods hat thiefe, haue one half pecke of peafe and oates more for that, as I am Iohn Oſtler, hee has been euer as good a iade as euer traueled.

Club Faith well ſaid old Lacke, thou art the old lad ſtil.

Hoſtler Come Gaffer Club, vnload, vnload, and get to ſupper, and Ile rub dunne the while.

Enter ſir Iohn Old-castle, and his Lady diſguiſde.

Oldca. Come Madam, happily eſcaped, here let vs ſit,

This place is farre remote from any path,

And here awhile our weary limbs may reſt,

To take reſreſhing, free from the purſuite

Of enuious Wincheſter.

Lady But where (my Lord,)

Shall we find reſt for our diſquiet minds?

There dwell vntamed thoughts that hardly ſtouple,

To ſuch abatement of diſdained rags,

We were not wont to trauell thus by night,

Eſpecially on foote.

Oldca. No matter loue,

Extremities admit no better choice,

And were it not for thee, ſay froward time,

Impoſde a greater taſke, I would eſteeme it

As lightly as the wind that blowes vpon vs,

But in thy ſufferance I am doubly taſkt,

Thou waſt not wont to haue the earth thy ſtoole,

Nor the moiſt dewy graſſe thy pillow, nor

Thy chamber to be the wide horriſon,

Lady How can it ſeeme a trouble, hauing you

A partner with me, in the worſt I feele?

No

The first part of

No gentle Lord, your presence would giue ease
To death it selfe, should he now seaze vpon me, Behold what my foresight hath vndertane heres bread and
For feare we faint, they are but homely cates, cheese & a bottle.
Yet fauce with hunger, they may seeme as sweete,
As greater dainties we were wont to taste.

Oldca. Praise be to him whose plentie sends both this,
And all things else our mortall bodies need,
Nor scorne we this poore feeding, nor the state.
We now are in, for what is it on earth,
Nay vnder heauen, continues at a stay?
Ebbes not the sea, when it hath ouerflowne?
Floues not darknes when the day is gone?
And see we not sometime the eie of heauen,
Dimmd with ouerflying clowdes: theres not that worke
Of carefull nature, or of cunning art,
(How strong, how beauteous, or how rich it be)
But falls in time to ruine: here gentle Madame,
In this one draught I wash my sorrow downe. drinker.

Lady And I incoragde with your cheerefull speech,
Wil do the like.

Oldca. Pray God poore Harpoole come,
If he should fall into the Bishops hands,
Or not remember where we bade him meete vs,
It were the thing of all things else, that now
Could breede reuolt in this new peace of mind.

Lady Feare not my Lord, hees witty to deuise,
And strong to execute a present shift.

Oldca. That power be stil his guide hath guided vs,
My drowfie eies waxe heavy, rarely rising,
Together with the trauell we haue had,
Make me that I could gladly take a nap,
Were I perswaded we might be secure.

Lady Let that depend on me, whilst you do sleepe,
Ile watch that no misfortune happen vs,
Lay then your head vpon my lap sweete Lord,

And

sir Iohn Old-castle

And boldly take your rest.

Oldca. I shal deare wife,
Be too much trouble to thee.

Lady Vrge not that,
My duty binds me, and your loue commands.

I would I had the skil with tuned voyce,
To draw on sleepe with some sweet melodie,

But imperfectoin and vnaptnesse too,
Are both repugnant, feare inserts the one,

The other nature hath denied me vs.

But what talke I of meanes to purchase that,

Is freely hapned? sleepe with gentle hand,

Hath shut his eie-liddes, oh victorious labour,

How soone thy power can charme the bodies sense?

And now thou likewise climbst vnto my braine,

Making my heauy temples stoupe to thee,

Great God of heauen from danger keepe vs free. both sleepes.

Enter sir Richard Lee, and his men

Lee. A murder closely done and in my ground?

Search carefully, if any where it were,

This obscure thicket is the likeliest place.

seruant. Sir I haue found the body stiffe with cold,

And mangled cruelly with many wounds.

Lee Looke if thou knowest him, turne his body vp,

Alacke it is my son, my sonne and heire,

Whom two yeares since, I sent to Ireland,

To practise there the discipline of warre,

And comming home (for so he wrote to me)

Some sauage hart, some bloody diuellish hand,

Either in hate, or thirsting for his coyne,

Hath here stude out his bloud, vnhappy houre,

Accursed place, but most inconstant fate,

That hadst referude him from the bullets fire,

And suffered him to scape the wood-karnes fury,

Didst here ordaine the treasure of his life,

(Euen here within the armes of tender peace,

And where security gave greatest hope)
To be consumed by treasons wastefull hand?
And what is most afflicting to my soule,
That this his death and murder should be wrought,
Without the knowledge by whose meanes twas done,
2 serv. Not so fir, I haue found the authors of it,
See where they sit, and in their bloody fistes,
The fatall instruments of death and sinne.

Lee Iust iudgement of that power, whose gracious eye,
Loathing the sight of such a hainous fact,
Dazeled their senses with benumbing sleepe,
Till their unhallowed treachery were knowne:
Awake ye monsters, murderers awake,
Tremble for horror, blush you cannot chuse,
Beholding this inhumane deed of yours.

Old. What meane you sir to trouble weary soules,
And interrupt vs of our quiet sleepe?

Lee Oh diuellish! can you boast vnto your felucs
Of quiet sleepe, hauing within your hearts
The guilt of murder waking, that with cries
Deafes the lowd thunder, and sollicites heauen,
With more than Mandrakes shriekes for your offence?

Lady Old. What murder? you vpbraid vs wrongfully.

Lee Can you deny the fact? see you not heere,
The body of my sonne by you mis-done?
Looke on his wounds, looke on his purple hew:
Do we not finde you where the deede was done?
Were not your kniues fast closed in your hands?
Is not this cloth an argument beside,
Thus staine and spotted with his innocent blood?
These speaking characters, were nothing else
To pleade against ye, would conuict you both.
Bring them away, bereauers of my ioy,
At Hartford where the Sifes now are kept,
Their liues shall answer for my sonnes lost life.

Old-castle As we are innocent, so may we speede.

ſir John Old-castle.

Lee As I am wrongd, ſo may the law proceede. exeunt.

Enter biſhop of Rocheſter, conſtable of S. Albons, with ſir Iohn of Wrotham, Doll his wench, and the Iriſhman in Harpooles apparell.

Biſhop What intricate confuſion haue we heere?

Not two houres ſince we apprehended one,

In habite Iriſh, but in ſpeech, not ſo:

And now you bring another, that in ſpeech

I altogether Iriſh, but in habite

Seemes to be Engliſh: yea and more than ſo,

The ſeruant of that heretike Lord Cobham.

Iriſhman Fait me be no ſeruant of the lord Cobhams,
Me be Mack Chan of Ulſter.

Biſhop Otherwiſe calld Harpoole of Kent, go to ſir,
You cannot blinde vs with your broken Iriſh.

ſir Iohn Truſt me, my Lord Biſhop, whether Iriſh,
Or Engliſh, Harpoole or not Harpoole, that
I leaue to be decided by the triall:

But ſure I am this man by face and ſpeech

Is he that murdered yong ſir Richard Lee:

I met him preſently vpon the fact,

And that he ſlew his maſter for that gold,

Thoſe iewells and that chaine I tooke from him.

Biſhop Well, our affaires doe call vs backe to London,
So that we cannot proſecute the cauſe

As we deſire to do, therefore we leaue

The charge with you, to ſee they be conuaid

To Hartford Siſe: both this counterfaite

And you ſir Iohn of Wrotham, and your wench,

For you are culpable as well as they,

Though not for murder, yet for felony.

But ſince you are the meanes to bring to light

This graceleſſe murder, you ſhall beare with you,

Our letters to the Iudges of the bench,

To be your friendes in what they lawfull may.

ſir Iohn I thanke your Lordſhip.

The first part of

Bish. So, away with them. exunt.

Enter Gaoler and his man, bringing forth Old castle.

Gaoler Bring forth the prisoners, see the court preparede,
The Iustices are comming to the bench.
So, let him stand, away, and fetch the rest. exunt.

Old. Oh giue me patience to indure this scourge,
Thou that art fountaine of that vertuous streame,
And though contempt, false witness, and reproch
Hang on these yron gyues, to presse my life
As low as earth, yet strengthen me with faith,
That I may mount in spirite about the cloudes.

Enter Gaoler bringing in Lady Old-castle, and Harpoole.

Here comes my lady, sorow tis for her,
Thy wound is greuous, else I scoffe at thee.
What and poore Harpoole! art thou ith bryars too?

Harp. Ifaith my Lord, I am in, get out how I can.

Lady. Say (gentle Lord) for now we are alone,
And may conferre, shall we confesse in brieft,
Of whence, and what we are, and so preuent
The accusation is commencde against vs?

Old. What will that helpe vs? being knowne, sweete loue,
VVe shall for heresie be put to death,
For so they tearme the religion we professe.
No, if it be ordained we must die,
And at this instant, this our comfort be,
That of the guilt imposde, our soules are free.

Harp. Yea, yea my lord, Harpoole is so resolute,
I wreake of death the lesse, in that I die
Not by the sentence of that enuious priest
The Bishop of Rochester, oh were it he,
Or by his meanes that I should suffer here,
It would be double torment to my soule.

Lady. VVell, be it then according as heauen please.

Enter lord Iudge, two Iustices, Mayor of Saint Albons, lord Powesse and his lady, and old sir Richard Lee: the Iudge and Iustices take their places.

Iudge

ſir Iohn Old-castle.

Judge Now M.Maior, what gentleman is that,
You bring with you, before vs, and the bench?

Maior The Lord Powes if it like your honor,
And this his Lady, traueiling toward Wales,
Who for they lodgde laſt night within my houſe,
And my Lord Biſhop did lay ſearch for ſuch,
Were very willing to come on with me,
Leſt for their ſakes, ſuſpition we might wrong.

Judge We crie your honor mercy good my Lord,
Wilt pleaſe ye take your place, madame your ladyſhip,
May here or where you will reſoſe your ſelfe,
Vntill this buſineſſe now in hand be paſt.

Lady Po. I will withdraw into ſome other roome,
So that your Lordſhip, and the reſt be pleaſde.

Judge With all our hearts : attend the Lady there.

Lord Po. Wiſe, I haue eyde yond priſoners all this while,
And my conceit doth tel me, tis our friend,
The noble Cobham, and his vertuous Lady.

Lady Po. I thinke no leſſe, are they ſuſpected trow ye
For doing of this murder?

Lord Po. What it meanes,
I cannot tell, but we ſhall know anon,
Meane ſpace as you paſſe by them, aſk the queſtion,
But do it ſecretly, you be not ſcene,
And make ſome ſigne that I may know your mind.

Lady Po. My Lord Cobham, madam? as ſhe paſſeth ouer the Old. No Cobhã now, nor madam as you loue vs, ſtage by the.
But Iohn of Lancaſhire, and Ione his wiſe.

Lady Po. Oh tel, what is it that our loue can do,
To pleaſure you, for we are bound to you.

Oldca. Nothing but this, that you concale our names,
So gentle lady paſſe for being ſpied.

Lady Po. My heart I leaue, to beare part of your grieſe. exit.

Judge Call the priſoners to the barre: ſir Richard Lee,
What euidence can you bring againſt theſe people,
To proue them guiltie of the murder done?

The first part of

Lee. This bloody towell, and these naked kniues,
Beside we found them sitting by the place,
Where the dead body lay within a bush.

Judge. VVhat answer you w by law should not proceed,
According to this euidence giuen in,
To taxe ye with the penalty of death?

Old. That we are free from murders very thought,
And know not how the gentleman was flaine.

1 Iust. How came this linnen cloth so bouduy then?

Lady Cob. My husband hot with traueiling my lord,
His nose gusht out a bleeding, that was it. (sheathde?)

2 Iust. But wherefore were your sharpe edgde kniues vn-

Lady Cob. To cut such simple victuall as we had.

Judge. Say we admit this answer to those articles,
VVhat made ye in so priuate a darke nooke,
So far remote from any common path,

As was the thicke where the dead corpes was throwne?

Old. Iourning my lord from London from the terme,
Downe into Lancashire where we do dwell,
And what with age and trauell being faint,
VVe gladly sought a place where we might rest,
Free from resort of other passengers,
And so we strayed into that secret corner.

Judge. These are but ambages to driue of time,
And linger Iustice from her purposde end.
But who are these?

Enter the Constable, bringing in the Irishman, sir Iohn of Wrotham, and Doll.

Const. Stay Iudgement, and release those innocents,
For here is hee, whose hand hath done the deed,
For which they stand indited at the barre,
This sauage villaine, this rude Irish slaue,
His tongue already hath confest the fact,
And here is witnes to confirme as much.

sir Iohn. Yes my good Lords, no sooner had he flaine
His louing master for the wealth he had,

But

sir Fohn Old-castle.

But I vpon the instant met with him,
And what he purchacde with the losse of bloud:
With strokes I presently bereau'de him of,
Some of the which is spent, the rest remaining,
I willingly surrender to the hands
Of old sir Richard Lee, as being his,
Beside my Lord Iudge, I greet your honor,
With letters from my Lord of Winchester. deliueres a letter.

Lee Is this the wolfe whose thirstie throate did drinke
My deare sonnes bloud? art thou the snake
He cherisht, yet with enuious piercing sting,
Assaildst him mortally? foule stigmatike,
Thou venome of the country where thou liuedst,
And pestilence of this: were it not that law
Stands ready to renege thy crueltie,
Traitor to God, thy master, and to me,
These hands should be thy executioner.

Iudge Patience sir Richard Lee, you shall haue iustice,
And he the guerdon of his base desert,
The fact is odious, therefore take him hence,
And being hangde vntil the wretch be dead,
His body after shall be hangd in chaines,
Neare to the place, where he did act the murder.

Irish. Prethee Lord shudge let me haue mine own clothes, my strouces there, and let me be hangd in a with after my cun-
try, the Irish fashion. exit.

Iudge Go to, away with him, and now sir John,
Although by you, this murther came to light,
And therein you haue well deseru'd, yet vpright law,
So will not haue you be excusde and quit,
For you did rob the Irishman, by which
You stand attained here of felony,
Beside, you haue bin lewd, and many yeares
Led a lasciuious vnbeseeeming life.

sir Iohn Oh but my Lord, he repents, sir Iohn repents, and he will mend.

Iudge.

The first part of

Judge In hope thereof, together with the fauour,
My Lord of Winchester intreats for you,
We are content you shall be proued.

sir Iohn I thanke your good Lordship.

Judge These other falsly here, accusde, and brought
In perill wrongfully, we in like sort
Do set at liberty, paying their fees.

Lord Po. That office if it please ye I will do,
For countries sake, because I know them well,
They are my neighbours, therefore of my cost,
Their charges shall be paide.

Lec. And for amends,
Touching the wrong vnwittingly I haue done,
There are a few crownes more for them to drinke. gives them

Judge. Your kindnes merites praise sir Richard Lec, a purse.
So let vs hence. exeunt all but Lord Powesse and Oldcastle.

Lord Po. But Powesse still must stay,
There yet remains a part of that true loue,
He owes his noble friend vnatisfide,
And vnperformd, which first of all doth bind me,
To gratulate your lordships safe deliuery,
And then intreat, that since vnlookt for thus,
We here are met, your honor would vouchsafe,
To ride with me to Wales, where though my power,
(Though not to quittance those great benefites,
I haue receiud of you) yet both my house,
My purse, my seruants, and what else I haue,
Are all at your command, deny me not,
I know the Bishops hate pursues ye so,
As theres no safety in abiding here.

Old. Tis true my Lord, and God forgie him for it.

Lord Po. Then let vs hence, you shall be straight prouided
Of lusty geldings, and once entred VVales,
VVell may the Bishop hunt, but spight his face, 9 NO 58
He neuer more shall haue the game in chace. exeunt.
